CHINESE CLAIM GAIN IN GREAT BATTLE

Hitler Is Cheered By Big Crowds In Italian Towns

Fuehrer in Rome After Train Trip From Brenner Pass

Unparalleled Display Prepared By Il Duce

ROME (AP) — Adolf Hitler arrived at Rome's Ostiense station tonight for the state visit which is to dramatize the solidarity of Europe's two Fascist states.

The German dictator's special train rolled in at 8:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. P.S.T.) after an all-day journey across northern Italy from the Alpine barrier at the Brenner Pass to the Eternal City. Rome was prepared with a reception surpassing in size and grandeur any of the days of the Caesars.

After Hitler's entrance into Italy at the Brenner Pass at about 8 a.m., his trip across Tuscany was a tour of triumph.

As the Fuehrer's special train sped southward beneath a fair sky, cheering crowds and waving flags greeted him at every station.

SEES SLOGANS

On the sides of many freshly painted buildings along the railway the German leader could read excerpts from Premier Mussolini's speeches. One of these was taken from the Duce's defence of the Italian government's attitude toward Germany's absorption of Austria.

"We do not discuss our frontiers; we defend them."

After the train's trip through the Brenner Pass, hands played the German and Italian national anthems as it pulled into the railway station at Brennero, lavishly decorated with flowers and bunting, at 8:01 a.m.

The Fuehrer was up to receive the emissaries of King Vittorio Emanuele and Premier Mussolini, sent to welcome him to Italian soil. They were the Duke of Pistoia, for the king, and Achille Starace, Fascist Party secretary, for Il Duce. Giuseppe Bastianini, under-secretary for foreign affairs, represented the government.

PLEDGE RECALLED

The Fuehrer traveled through a region peopled by 250,000 folk of Teutonic blood. Austrians ceded to Italy after the Great war.

Governor Is Not Vacating House

Alberta Ministry Ready to Close Official Home, But It Is Still Occupied

EDMONTON (CP) — A deadlock between the province and the Lieutenant-Governor over the government's decision to close Government House was revealed today, according to the Edmonton Journal.

Premier Aberhart, when seen this morning, was reported to have said Government House would not be closed today, as first intended.

"The situation will be discussed by the cabinet," said the Premier, who added that he had no further statement to make.

Hon. J. C. Bowen, Lieutenant-Governor, also declined to make any statement when reached by the Journal. He was still in residence at Government House with his family and household staff.

It was reported on reliable authority, however, that the Governor had taken the position that an order-in-council must be passed before he can be required to vacate Government House.

Any order-in-council must be signed by the Governor before it can become effective.

The Lieutenant-Governor, it was learned, replied on Monday to the notice he had received from the government last Saturday requesting him to vacate the building by Tuesday.

Texts of the official notice and the Governor's reply have not been disclosed.

Shawnigan Road To Open Thursday

After being closed for three weeks due to construction of a new bridge, the Mill Bay-Shawnigan Lake road will be reopened to traffic Thursday morning, the Department of Public Works said today.

The new bridge crosses the Millstream Falls about half a mile west of the Island Highway on the Shawnigan road.

Generals View East Spain Front

Gen. Miguel Aranda, commander of Spanish Insurgent Galician brigades, is pictured above pointing out to Gen. Fidel Davila the ground of a contemplated move of their combined columns, which fought through to a junction on the Vinaroz front. For some days there has been no important change in the Mediterranean area. The heaviest fighting now is east of Teruel, some distance inland.

Zeballos Grows To 800 With Pool Halls And Electric Light

Government Engineer Reports on Work at New Island Goldfield

Zeballos now has its hot-dog stand, a population of 800 and three pool halls.

The provincial government officially recognized these facts about the Vancouver Island gold field today in course of a review of the area issued from notes of Dr. R. J. Macdonald, resident engineer for the Department of Mines, completed last Wednesday.

With the ground staked for 20 miles around the main showings, intensive prospecting this summer may reveal other commercial deposits, Dr. Macdonald believes.

"The activity in the district at the present time," he says, "may be divided into three classes: That upon the properties upon which sufficient work has been done to permit them to be classified as proven deposits of ore; upon those which may be classified as 'attractive prospects,' and finally on staked ground entirely undeveloped, upon which there may or may not be surface exposures of sufficient apparent merit to warrant exploratory work."

TOWNSITE GROWTH

Apart from the mines, Dr. Macdonald gave the following summary of the growth of the townsites: Population of the area, 800; buildings, three hotels (one with water and electric light), four restaurants, one drugstore with offices above, one men's clothing store, one hot-dog stand, three pool halls, two general stores, Standard Oil Company buildings, docks and storage, one sawmill, two bakers, one bank building, about 25 dwellings in the townsite itself and 25 to 30 dwellings (tents and shacks) beyond the townsite.

He says the main road through the townsite is now graveled and a truck road is open as far as the Goldfield property eight miles from tidewater. The government wharf is a first-class structure and the light and power company is making preparations to supply light and power to the townsite.

Dr. Macdonald says that of the established properties Goldfield (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

CITY TO SEEK AID FOR RELIEF

Mounting Costs of Unemployables in Victoria to Be Pointed Out to Government

Informed by Alderman S. H. Okell, city relief committee chairman, that Victoria's relief costs had risen 40 per cent during March while costs for the province had dropped 60 per cent for the same month, when figures were compared with those of March last year, the City Council last night decided to press for substantial aid from the provincial government.

Alderman Okell stated that total costs of relief in Victoria had fallen from $30,230 in March of last year to $19,433 last March. However, he said, the city's share had risen, through the new unemployable rulings, from $8,135 to $11,900. Against that, provincial payment had dropped from $22,095 to $7,563.

The committee, he added, hoped to secure some assistance through an application to J. H. McVety, superintendent for British Columbia of the Unemployment Service of Canada, for relisting of certain cases declared by local provincial offices as unemployables.

Alderman Archie Willis suggested the city make its representations to the government for relief from the increasing burden immediately. That course was agreeable to the relief committee, but it had considered seeking reclassification of cases first, Alderman Okell replied. He hoped for a meeting with Mr. McVety this week.

WOULD CLOSE OFFICE

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar reiterated his suggestion of the last few years that the city should close down the local relief office and send unemployed to the Parliament Buildings to collect their allowances. He believed the superior government would eventually try to shut all relief costs (Turn to Page 2, Col. 8)

G-MAN SHOT IN ILLINOIS DIES

W. R. Ramsey Succumbs After Fight in Which Suspected Man Killed

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Wm. R. Ramsey, 34, formerly of Seattle, an agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, died here today from four bullet wounds suffered in a gun battle with a former Indiana convict.

He died in the Lakeview hospital while his mother, Mrs. Wm. R. Ramsey Sr., was racing to his bedside by plane from Seattle.

He was the 12th federal agent to die in line of duty.

Ramsey was shot four times yesterday when he and Sheriff Harry George of Danville led Illinois and Indiana state patrolmen and deputies to the rural home of Joe Earlywine. The latter was sought for questioning about the holdup of the state bank at Lapel, Ind.

Officers said they found Earlywine in bed and that he opened fire without warning. In the shooting that followed, Earlywine was killed, and his son, Virgil, seven, was wounded inadvertently. Ramsey collapsed with bullet wounds in the stomach and each arm. A fourth bullet shot off the thumb of his right hand.

Chinese Tell of Seven-mile Advance and Say They Have 800,000 Men Ready to Share in General Offensive; Gen. Chiang's Troops Attempt to Encircle Tancheng

ALL IN JAPAN MUST REGISTER

TOKIO (AP) — All adults in Japan must register with police under a section of the national mobilization law which the government is ready to invoke on Thursday.

Yielding to the cry of the military for use of the war measure during the China conflict, it was announced 11 of 30 articles and three of 20 provisions for punishment of offenders would be promulgated.

The registration requires details of business, bank accounts and experience in various lines of work. Another section empowers the government to examine records of any commercial enterprise.

FIRE IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Considerable damage was done by a fire which broke out early today in Jam Kee's Chinese laundry here. The blaze threatened to spread to an adjoining rooming-house before firemen brought it under control. A number of Orientals, in night attire, fled from the rooming house.

Glasgow Exposition Opened By King In Presence Of 100,000

Their Majesties Given Great Welcome as Empire Fair Starts

GLASGOW (AP) — The King opened the Empire Exposition on the banks of the Clyde today with a tribute to the "vitality and initiative" of the Scottish people.

He spoke before 100,000 in the stadium of the great steel and concrete city built over 175 acres of Bellahouston Park.

The Queen was at his side and a thunder of cheers rolled from the stadium as trumpets announced the arrival of Their Majesties in an open carriage.

The King was in the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet, and the Queen wore a pale grey and beige gown.

The King spoke for seven minutes, expressing confidence the exposition would provide the meeting place for many nationalities, and thus "help toward a better understanding among the peoples of the world."

UNRECOGNIZED STRIKE

Their Majesties arrived at the exhibition grounds at 10:30 a.m., just a few hours after 500 bus drivers and conductors had walked out in an "outlaw" strike against the Scottish Motor Traction Company in a dispute growing out of the discharge of a conductor. The Transport and General Workers' Union, to which the strikers belong, declared it would refuse to recognize the walkout.

The strike caused little difficulty in traveling, and a crowd estimated at more than 100,000 was on hand when the King entered the stadium in Bellahouston Park after driving through streets of Glasgow in an open carriage.

The King and Queen Elizabeth were escorted to the royal box by Lord Elgin, president of the exposition.

CALGARY (CP) — A parade of 200 relief strikers was dispersed by a squad of police, and 11 men and two women were arrested here today.

The strikers were marching to Riley Park, in the northwest section of the city, where non-strikers were at work today.

Half a block from the park the police squad halted and dispersed the paraders.

Those held were charged with unlawful assembly.

Rivalry Keen At Musical Festival

Out-of-town Victories Feature Vocal and Elocution Sections

Victoria's 12th annual Musical Festival got into its stride this morning with more than 160 competitors being heard in nine vocal, piano and elocution classes, which kept three halls busy from shortly after 9 until nearly 1.

The festival will be officially opened this evening by Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education, in First United Church.

A feature of this morning's session was the success of out-of-town competitors. Vancouver entries took all three of the elocution classes and a Nanaimo girl placed first in the larger of the two vocal solo classes.

SHANGHAI (AP) — Chinese dispatches Tuesday night reported a seven-mile advance on the southern Shantung front, focal point of the war, and declared the Japanese lines had buckled completely under the Chinese onslaught.

The advance was said to be the first thrust of a general Chinese offensive, in which 800,000 men were declared ready to participate.

The reports said the advance was made between Taiherchwang, scene of a major Japanese defeat last month, and Pihlsen, 15 miles to the southeast, in Kiangsu province.

REPORTED IN RETREAT

In that sector the Japanese had been making the most intensive efforts of their recent drive to wipe the stain of Taiherchwang and reach the vital Lung-hai railway.

Now, however, said dispatches from the front to Hankow, these Japanese forces are retreating rapidly northward.

Previously Chinese infantrymen had repulsed 70 Japanese assaults on three fortress-like villages and then advanced their own lines a mile in counterattacks, drawing their net tighter about Tancheng.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's veterans were fighting to set Japanese back on their heels a second time in south Shantung province, despite the fact Japanese were reinforced for a supreme effort to atone for defeat they suffered at Taiherchwang almost a month ago.

ENCIRCLING MOVE

The Chinese were attempting to encircle Tancheng, 22 miles north of the Lung-hai railway and on the right bank of the Yi River, by attacks at Matowchen to the northwest and to the southwest.

Tancheng was the eastern side of a narrow Japanese salient, with line before Pihlsen and Taiherchwang forming the south and west sides respectively.

Chinese claimed to have captured three Japanese positions before Pihlsen and also were attacking north of Taiherchwang.

An Associated Press dispatch from Shanghai received on this continent last night said that with the Chinese attack on Tancheng already developed into a battle of major proportions, the question of whether the Japanese were approaching their second major military disaster in Shantung was being discussed openly by foreign military experts, who expected decisive action within a week.

If the Chinese can advance or hold their lines a week longer, in the opinion of these experts, the Japanese—already wearied and battered—will need heavy reinforcements.

Elaine Basanta (singer) and Floretta Lazzarin (pianist) took first place in the class for vocal solos by girls between the ages of 12 and 16, accompanied by girls or boys in the same age bracket.

Stewart Wilson, adjudicator of the vocal classes, awarded them 85 marks for their performance of Techni-Kowsky's "Merry Winds of Springtime."

Elaine Harte and Barbara Hill were second with 83, and Adele Dunsmore and Mary Foster, a Nanaimo team, third with 82.

Before giving his adjudication on this class, Mr. Wilson called the performers to the stage, with the singers drawn up on one side and the accompanists on the other. He then gave them a talk, with (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2) shower of splinters whizzing over our heads.

"We flung ourselves into a ditch and crawled toward the sound of the guns and away from the road and village, which the loyalists were trying to destroy. As we crawled nearer to the guns, we were suddenly halted by machine gun-fire. Finally, we got into a sunken road where a captain and a Moroccan soldier were sheltering.

"We lay for half an hour in the ditch before three batteries of our own guns opened fire and gradually silenced the loyalists. After they had been quiet 10 minutes, we left our shelter and walked toward the road. While we were examining one of the shell holes in a ploughed field, two more shells exploded, 25 yards away. We made a dash for the car and drove on into Lerida, where we had our first experience of street fighting.

CATHEDRAL MINED

"The loyalists had systematically destroyed the cathedral, leaving only the bare shell, which they used as a garage. They had left quantities of stuff behind and the pubs were full of abandoned drink, which we and the victorious soldiers shared."

Giving his first impressions of the city of Zaragoza in wartime, the young Balliol man wrote:

"The hotel is packed with military men and journalists. Typewriters click all day. Soldiers take fond farewells and the atmosphere is rather like a good American war film. The first night we had to sleep on divans in the lounge."

"We learned that over 100 British prisoners of the International Brigade had been captured and were available for inspection at the military prison. They are pretty cheerful and glad to be out of the war. Some had enlisted because they are unemployed; others enlisted for political reasons."

"I met one man in the Vancouver, who told me the Communist Party had a recruiting office there. He joined up because we wanted to get to Europe."

Irun, Mr. Hope described as a "city of shattered houses"; San Sebastian as a "town of wounded soldiers and lovely women in deep mourning for murdered or fallen relatives."

FRANCE ADDS TO ARMED FORCES

Daladier By Decree Orders Army, Navy and Air Force Increased

PARIS (AP)—Increases in man-power for all France's armed forces were ordered today by Premier Edouard Daladier, head of the "national defence" government now ruling the nation by decree.

An edict which became law this morning demands more soldiers, sailors and airmen, along with many new sacrifices from Frenchmen to enable the nation to support the cost of the modern machinery of war.

Decreases in the same series yesterday increased France's annual tax bill 4,000,000,000 francs ($120,000,000), levying a flat 8 per cent increase in all direct and hidden taxes.

Announcement of the government's intention to enrol additional fighting men was contained in the Premier's report to President Albert Lebrun on a decree opening a new credit of 4,712,500,000 francs (about $141,375,000) for national defence. Mr. Daladier said this would be used for:

Strengthening the army by incorporating an unstated number of reserve officers in the regular service.

Increasing the navy's man-power from 69,500 to 72,000 men. Increasing the air force from 44,000 to 52,500 non-commissioned officers and men.

Armed forces in the colonies also will be strengthened by creation of two new battalions of Senegalese sharpshooters, among the best colonial troops, and other measures.

demonstrations, on the importance of give and take between the two members of each team. He also warned the pianists of the danger of the singer's entry being killed by a too robust introduction by the accompanist.

He termed the winners "a good pair who played into each other's hands."

NANAIMO GIRL WINS

Adele Dunsmore, Nanaimo, was adjudged first in the vocal solo class for girls over 13 and under 16 years, with 96 marks. Elaine Basanta placed second with 85, and Phyllis Pierson and June A. Copping were equal third with 84. The test piece was Demuth's "Lullaby."

There were 28 competitors in this class, and Mr. Wilson only announced the results after he had made the four best performers repeat their songs.

The winner's performance, he said, was very careful in its detail and rhythm and had a really musical sense of phrase.

In his comments on the whole class he said that with girls of this age he was not looking for operatic soloists or big voices, but for a type of singing which could be helpful to them in their general musical training.

He commented unfavorably on the quality of the diction of some of the singers, saying it was no better in Victoria than anywhere else in Canada, and adding: "Unless you pronounce the consonants you haven't got any rhythm in your words."

PIANO CLASSES

Four children's piano classes were heard in First Baptist Church, with Maurice Jacobson adjudicating.

Jimmy Stephenson won first place in the Grade 1 piano solo class from a field of 30 entries. He was awarded 86 marks. Patricia Jameski of Ganges and Marie White were equal second with 85. Four other players were given 84 marks each.

Muriel Sprague was first in the girls' grade 2 piano solo section, with 87.96—173 marks. Marie L. Vowles second with 87.84—171, and Mary Rogers of Ladysmith third with 85.85—170.

In the Grade 3 boys' class, John Beckwith came first with 87.88—175, Eddie Hulford second with 87.86—173 and Peter Munday third with 84.84—168.

IMAGINATION NEEDED

In commenting on the work in the Grade 1 class, in which the test piece was "Poise" from Percival Driver's "All in a Ring" series, Mr. Jacobson found the technique was far in advance of the imagination and the musical outlook.

This led him to remark: "You can take a great deal of trouble with phrasing and book expression and accents, and still be a long way from music. . . . Nothing is worth anything at all unless it proceeds first from the imagination. . . . You should get everything correct, but let it flow out of the mood inside you. . . . If your technique is not the servant of your minds, of your imaginations, of your poetic outlooks, it is not worth tuppence."

Later, before adjudicating the boys' Grade 3 class, Mr. Jacobson urged parents, pupils and teachers alike to remain in the hall after the particular class in which they were interested was finished. If they dashed out as soon as they heard the results they lost all the real educational value of such a festival, he said.

The test pieces in the girls' piano solo class were Bach's Minuet in D minor and Rubenstein's "The Cuckoo," and in the boys' class "Grandma Tells a Ghost Story," by Kullak, and Greig's "Patriotic Song."

There was only one entry in the Grade 1 piano duet section. Mr. Jacobson awarded Ruth Gray and Eric Gee 78 marks for their performance of a Markham Lee minuet. He went on the platform with the two young players and demonstrated the proper playing of the two parts.

VANCOUVER WINNERS

Juanita Woodman, Vancouver, was given first place in the primary elocution class for girls under 10. Mrs. C. H. Dunbar awarded her 89 marks for her interpretation of Newman's "A Toy Tragedy." Lorraine Cornish, a George Jay School entry, was second with 88 marks, and Ilace Roskelley third with 85.

Gordon Lyall, Vancouver, came out top in the equivalent boys' class with 88, seven marks ahead of the runner-up, Norman Wylie, another George Jay entry. Tommy Pellow and John Canova were equal third. The test piece was Robert Louis Stevenson's "Shadow March."

Wandy Swidersky, Vancouver, won the junior elocution class for girls 10 and under 13 years, with 89 marks for her recitation of "A Child's Thought of God," by E. B. Browning. Joy McNahey was second with 88, and two Duncan girls, Dawn Murray and Lola Smith, equal third.

In her comment on the various classes Mrs. Dunbar stressed the importance of the emphasis of the voice being appropriate to the character of the poem. In some cases good performances were spoiled by light pieces being over-emphasized.

Other points which she mentioned were the need for striking the happy medium in the pronunciation of a final consonant when the next word started with a vowel, and the importance of bodily poise.

The festival is continuing this afternoon at First United and first Baptist Churches.

"The Queen and I are very happy to be in Scotland once more. We will see today the completion of the great scheme, the inception of which we saw when we were last in Glasgow, 10 months ago. At that time work on the buildings of the Empire Exhibition had scarcely begun; there now stands in Bellahouston Park, looking out over the river Clyde, a whole town of more than 100 palaces and pavilions.

"This is a remarkable achievement and in recognition of it my first word must be one of praise for the enterprise, enthusiasm and hard work which have made it possible. The task has been shared by many people—those who have served on the organizing bodies, the Empire governments who are taking part, the directing staff and, last but not least, the workmen.

SCOTTISH ORIGIN

"It has been performed willingly and wholeheartedly by all and I warmly congratulate them. The exhibition is an Empire undertaking, but it is well to remember that it owes its origin, and to a great extent its execution, to the people of Scotland."

The King said it was a significant fact that plans for the exhibition were drafted "at a time when Scotland was still under the cloud of a long industrial depression."

"For this reason," he continued, "too many people would have hesitated to embark on a scheme of so wide and formidable a scope, but in addition the fact had to be faced that this exhibition would inevitably challenge comparison with those held at Wembley, in New Zealand and in South Africa."

"Yet Scotland was not daunted, for that has never been her way. She believes that the best means of avoiding trouble is to provide against it, and that a new enterprise is 'the safest insurance' against a return of the depression. It is in this spirit that the exhibition has been built, and I see in it the symbol of the vitality and initiative upon which the continued prosperity of Scotland must rest."

"I have spoken first of Scotland, but I am well aware that without the help and support of the rest of the Empire this exhibition would not have been possible. It now stands before us to testify to that willing co-operation which I rejoice to think is the hall mark of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

"Just as men and women have gone out of Scotland in the past to found new homes in the countries overseas, so I hope that this exhibition built by their descendants will attract to Scotland many visitors of those distant lands."

"To those who come from foreign countries, I can promise a cordial welcome, and I am sure they will not be disappointed in what they find."

In the Canadian pavilion Their Majesties were escorted around by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, followed by four Mounties.

ZEBALLOS GROWS TO 800 WITH POOL HALLS AND ELECTRIC LIGHT

(the A. B. Trilts property) and Privateer (largely held by Victorians) are well to the foreground in underground development work.

On Privateer he says the work is concentrated on the 600, 900 and 1,000 levels and in raising from the 900 and 1,000 levels. On the 600 level, the vein has been drifted for 200 feet, "displaying excellent continuity and good mineralization over widths varying from 2 to 12 inches." On the 900 level some 900 feet of drifting has proved "remarkable continuity of the fissure for almost the entire length although in the last 150 feet the values dropped to a degree sufficient to preclude profitable operation. Raising from this level to the elevation of the 800 level has all been in ore, and drifting at this level will commence at once."

Drifting on the 1,000 level has again proved vein material over an attractive length, although continuity is not as well maintained as on the 900 level. Dr. Macnae says. Raising on ore from there to the 900 level is well under way.

At Goldfield, he says, number 4 level has drifted on the fissure for about 400 feet at a point 293 below the proven number 2 level and 425 feet below the "equally attractive" number 1 level. At an elevation of 1,238 feet, which is 558 feet below the number 4 adit, the number 8 level has just been faced up preparatory to cross-cutting toward the downward extension of the vein.

MILL TO GO AHEAD

Dr. Macnae says clearing and excavation at Goldfield preparatory to the installation of a complete camp for 60 men, power-house and 50-ton mill is practically complete.

He says that of the attractive prospects Central Zeballos, Rey Oro and Gold Peak properties may be cited as typical of ground in the earlier stages of development which gives some promise of commercial deposits. In this class, too, although practically untouched as yet, may be included the showings on the Beano ground.

"Ground has been staked for a distance of 20 miles around the main showings," Dr. Macnae says, "much of it late last fall or early this spring, and as yet weather conditions have afforded little opportunity for comprehensive prospecting on any but the lower levels. Much of the staked ground is, of course, off what appears to be the main belt, as delineated by the present known extent of the grandiorite. However, further intensive prospecting this season may prove not only the presence of other favorable areas of igneous intrusion and resulting commercial occurrence, similar in nature to those already established, but, as well, deposits, as exemplified by the Beano, not hitherto recognized in the district, but which may well be of importance."

Cat-walks Placed For New Bridge

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nine cat-walk cables today connected the two 325-foot towers of the new First Narrows bridge.

Four were laid and hoisted early Monday and the remaining five were placed this morning.

An extra cable handled today is a 5-inch hauling cable and is not part of the two cat-walks, which will be used in constructing the span.

Chilean Planes Search For Ship

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Sea planes were sent today in search for a Chilean passenger steamship which has not been heard from since an SOS was sent yesterday.

The vessel, the 1,150-ton Magallanes, carried a crew of 64 and an undisclosed number of passengers.

Her distress call from an unknown position was intercepted yesterday by a radio station at Puerto Montt, but contact could not be made with her.

MAN WOUNDED; SON IS HELD

At Princeton, B.C. W. Peat Tells Story of Being Attacked on Road

William Peat, young plasterer and Bible student, wanted for questioning in connection with an attack on his 45-year-old father and 12-year-old brother yesterday between Hedley, B.C., and Princeton, today was taken into custody near Keremeos, B.C., British Columbia police headquarters in Victoria reported.

The youth was taken in charge by Constable W. B. Stewart, according to the information received here.

FATHER'S STORY

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—William Peat, 45, was in the hospital here suffering from what Dr. D. McCafferty diagnosed as a fracture of the skull, and police quoted him as saying he had been attacked suddenly yesterday by his son, also named William, as they traveled by automobile from Hedley to Princeton.

Also in the hospital was another son, 13-year-old Archie Peat, who said he was attacked when he went to the aid of his father.

Police quoted Archie as saying his brother had chased him and hurled him into the swollen Similkameen River. The young brother finally fought his way to shore.

The elder Peat, a plasterer and evangelist, said the injuries to his head were caused by blows from a hammer and an axe.

As the train passed Alpine way-stations, the Fuehrer had an opportunity to see evidence of Italy's determination to make the region Italian, for even in communities where mostly German is spoken, all station signs were in Italian alone.

In Rome during the day police intensified their already strict surveillance as a precaution against any attempt on Hitler's life. Every traveler arriving in the city was subjected to minute inspection of his baggage. Persons invited to attend the celebrations were warned against carrying cameras or packages of any kind.

While the Italian press devoted nearly all its space to Hitler's visit, L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, did not mention it. The wide thoroughfare leading

DECLARE ALL CARGO UNFAIR

TACOMA (AP)—A United States Pacific Coast shipping strike resulting from closure of the port of Tacoma was predicted before the Tacoma city council today.

Thomas Thronson, representing the American Federation of Labor longshoremen of Tacoma, said all cargoes trans-shipped from Tacoma or addressed to Tacoma and sent elsewhere would be declared "hot" by members of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, beginning at 1 p.m. today.

"Madame Perkins (United States Secretary of Labor) had better work fast," Thronson said. "If she wants to avoid a coast-wide strike, because it's beginning in effect at 1 p.m. today."

Among the lavish praise in the Italian press, the Popolo di Roma described Hitler as "a great and pure man" who "is for us more the great comrade than the guest."

It is the third meeting between Mussolini and Hitler.

Alderman Okell supported Alderman Wills' suggestion, putting it forward in the form of a motion calling for assistance from the province and for representations to be made to the city members, the government and the welfare department.

Alderman Alex Peden asked what other municipalities had decided to do on the matter.

Mayor Andrew McEwin noted Saanich had stated its intention of continuing to pay but 20 per cent of relief costs. Another alderman remarked on parades in Vancouver.

The motion to seek assistance was put and carried.

CLEMENCY FOR FIVE YOUTHS

Magistrate Henry Hall Shows Leniency on Series of Theft Charges

Five youths involved in a series of charges of theft and possession of stolen property in the city, Saanich and Esquimalt police courts were sentenced to prison terms ranging from April 26 until yesterday, when they were arraigned for sentence before Magistrate Henry Hall yesterday afternoon.

Under the sentence only one of the boys actually spent time in jail. He had been in custody since the cases were first called. The remainder were not held after their first appearance.

Sentences were dated from April 26 because that was the first day the cases were called.

In passing sentence Magistrate Hall said he did not want others to think that because he was exercising clemency in this case he made a practice of it. "I have really felt that you boys would go straight, and I hope you won't let me down," he said.

The case of this group of boys committing offences had presented one of the most serious problems with which he had to deal, the magistrate continued. In deciding the case he had had to give consideration to the protection to which the public was entitled, and yet there were certain things to be said for each of the boys.

Acts of this kind, he said, not only brought disgrace upon each of the youths, but upon their families. If you're known as a criminal decent people don't want to associate with you. That in itself is a heavy penalty. As you grow up you will want to establish homes, and who would establish a home with a criminal?" he said.

He asked each youth in turn to give his word that if he was allowed to go he would not commit another offence. Each of the boys pledged himself to this promise.

Before sentence was passed character evidence was given by various persons for each of the boys.

Sing Chong, Chinese, charged with possession of some of the property stolen by the boys, was remanded until Thursday.

TELLS GYROS ABOUT TOUR

"Red" Martin Gives Interesting Account of Trip With House of David

"After I got used to being cracked at about my beard, it was O.K.," Albert "Red" Martin, looking more familiar without his beard, told members of the Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday, during an enlightening address on his recently-concluded season with the touring House of David basketball team.

"Red," who returned to Victoria Thursday from a four and a half months 25,000-mile trip through the United States, had plenty to tell the club members besides just basketball. Comparing Victoria basketball with the type of game played in cities throughout the States, however, Martin said the brand of ball south of the line was slower-moving but more scientific. "They play a safe type of ball, using both hands and with two feet on the floor," he said in referring to House of David methods particularly.

PLENTY OF TRAVELING

A three-day training session prepared Martin for his long trip. The bearded team played its first game in Fort Madison, Iowa, and then crossed the Mississippi into Chicago. The squad traveled through Kansas, Oklahoma and into Texas, where Martin said he was greatly impressed with the famous southern drawl. He spoke of the historical interest in the south.

From Texas the team played their way into California, where they visited Hollywood movie studios. Up the coast to Victoria and up Vancouver Island, during which time Martin repeatedly had to assure his visiting colleagues they were still on the "main highway." They had just completed 12,000 miles, much of it on fine United States highways.

The team traveled south again and made the round trip back to their starting point. Following the conclusion of the season, Martin spent time in Chicago and St. Paul and three weeks in Winnipeg, where he renewed acquaintances made when Victoria traveled east for the Canadian championship in 1936.

Martin said he was greatly impressed by the excellent sports auditoriums in which he played during the tour. Many of them, situated in out-of-the-way places, would be a credit to any large city and were just what Victoria needed.

The House of David won the first 64 games they played. Martin attributed their only losses to the safe and clean brand of basketball which characterized the bearded team's type of play.

Throughout the United States young players in every kind of sport were given every possible opportunity. Specialized training and coaching were excellent, he said.

Smuggling Stories Are Investigated

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Lapointe informed the House of Commons Monday the government had investigated alleged smuggling of arms and ammunition from the United States by Quebec province Fascists. He was replying to a question from T. L. Church, Conservative, Toronto-Broadview.

To Mr. Church's query what action would be taken in the matter, he replied "It is not considered in the public interest to answer this question."

Esquimalt Council Briefs

The Esquimalt Council will seek legal advice on the possibility of collecting a license fee from merchants with places of business outside the municipality and delivering goods within its boundaries. It will also make inquiries from Oak Bay and Saanich as to their experience with similar levies. Councillor G. R. Guillemaud, sponsor of a motion that a tax of $10 a year be imposed on these concerns, consented to amend the resolution so that the solicitor could be asked for advice. Councillor Albert Heald and Reeve Alexander Lockley both suggested such a levy might mean hardship for Esquimalt people through retaliation by merchants, out of proportion to the small additional revenue.

"We are getting farther and farther away from the Greater Victoria spirit," commented Councillor Heald when the trade license debate had ended.

Councillor R. G. Humphreys gave notice he will introduce a motion at the next meeting of the council seeking imposition of a license for pin-ball game machines. At a previous meeting the council had turned down a motion from the same councillor for a levy on slot, vending and pin-ball machines. Councillor Humphreys explained last night the City of Victoria was collecting a $60 license on the one class of machine. The council will seek legal advice before the next meeting.

April accounts totaling $7,354 were passed on submission by the finance committee.

Against Paying Opponent's Man

Hot Debate in City Council As Suggestion Made Suing Lawyer Get Costs

Dissatisfied with a suggestion from the city solicitor that the city pay a local lawyer costs for an action started against the city in connection with certain mechanics liens, on the proviso that the action would be dropped on the payment, the City Council last night referred the issue to its finance committee for a report.

The action concerned certain employees of a lath mill, the proprietor of which had been assisted by the city in a re-establishment move.

The city solicitor suggested that the lawyer representing the men holding liens be paid $50 for costs without prejudice to the city. He was supported by Alderman John Worthington.

Alderman W. L. Morgan voiced objection. The money was not going to the men, it was going to the lawyer. "And I don't think it's coming to him," he added.

Alderman Archie Willis concurred. Alderman R. A. C. Dewar thought payment might be the easiest way out. Alderman B. J. Gadsden opposed payment to the "other fellows' lawyer."

E. G. Snowden explained the case, noting that land on which the mill had been placed had been pointed out as city land but was, in fact, a shoreline fill owned by the federal government.

Alderman Alex Peden thought payment of costs might avoid further trouble.

The motion, presented by Alderman Ed. Williams, calling for a report, finally passed.

LAND RECEIPTS NEAR 1936 SUM

Returns For Four Months Nearly Up to Complete Collections For One Year

Cash receipts from the city lands department up to the end of last month were almost as great as those for the whole of 1936, Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, chairman of the lands committee, reported at the City Council meeting last night.

The 1936 total amounted to $27,463. Collections from January 1 to April 30 last year were $18,167.15, while those for the similar period this year were $26,803.52, he stated.

The report followed approval of five sales recommended by the lands committee.

The sales included a lot on the west side of Stannard Avenue between Richardson and Brooke Streets for $200, for one on the north side of Seaview between Jones and Blackwood for $200; for a third on the east side of Cedar Hill Road between Delatre and Edgware Road for $75, for a fourth on the corner of Gonzales and Richmond for $400, and a fifth on the corner of Topaz and Maple for $175.

The council also supported the lands committee recommendation to accept the tender of $759 from the Pacific Sheet Metal Works for the re-roofing of the Variety Theatre and for other external repairs on that building.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE HELD

Four hundred members and their wives, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, the Carle Rebekahs, the Colfax Rebekahs and the Columbia Lodge No. 2 attended evening service of the Centennial United Church Sunday, the occasion being the 119th anniversary of the founding of the order on the North American continent.

Rev. Dr. Andrew D. Reid preached an inspiring sermon on the subject, "Burden Sharing," during which he made reference to the work being done by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and its branch orders. These orders, he said, take on other people's burdens in the work they do, taking care of the sick and helping to relieve the distressed. The sermon was divided into three parts, with the first being that every man should bear his own burden; second, every man should share the other's burden, and third, every man should cast part of his burden upon the Lord.

Rev. James Hood also took part in the anniversary service. Miss Dorothy Parsons was the soloist for the service. Frank Hollins sang the solo obligato in the choir anthem "Love Divine" (Jessop).

The service was sponsored by the Victoria Lodge No. 1. The committee in charge of arrangements included Brother A. Sedgley, chairman; Brother F. Dillabough and Brother C. B. Tallack.

Good Business For All

WHEN PRIME MINISTER PATULLO gets back to Victoria he will undoubtedly tell the people of this province what he thinks the prospects are for an early start on the proposed highway from the United States, through British Columbia, to Alaska. He has been discussing the whole project—formally and informally—with the Dominion Government and with representative members of the United States Government. The net result so far is a pleasing prospect. Already the House of Representatives has passed a bill to authorize the appointment of a commission to confer with a similar body, acting for Canada, to explore the feasibility of the project from every point of view. If the Senate gives its approval to the measure in question the stage will be set for this country to establish its part of the machinery.

It is obvious that our friends on the south of us are solidly behind this project. The speedy manner in which the House of Representatives dealt with the necessary legislation—now in the hands of the upper chamber—indicates plainly that official Washington is ready to facilitate preliminary negotiations with official Ottawa. Official British Columbia, of course, as represented by the Premier of the province and his ministerial colleagues—not to mention practically 100 per cent of our population—is ready to take whatever action may be necessary to furnish all the authority for practical and effective co-operation the undertaking may require. It is not possible at this stage of the proceedings, of course, to attempt a discussion of the manner in which, and by whom, such an international project should be financed. This all-important phase of the subject obviously is one for the proposed joint commission to deal with and make its recommendations to the governments involved.

In recent weeks, and especially in view of Premier Pattullo's activities in Ottawa and Washington, much has been said and written on the subject of this highway to Alaska. Except in one or two quarters, opinion throughout British Columbia is wholeheartedly in favor of the scheme, not only because of the through connection between the state of Washington and Alaska which it would provide, but also because of the additional goodwill it would help to generate between ourselves and our neighbors, the enormous amount of work it would furnish during the course of its construction, and the continually growing revenue for this province which its operation would guarantee from year to year.

The timid element which stubbornly tries to discover something sinister in any sort of co-operative effort between Canada and the United States is already beginning to clutter up the discussion of the undertaking with an avalanche of "ifs" and "buts" which are scarcely worth even perfunctory consideration. The morning paper, for example, wants to know whether the people of British Columbia are content "that the roadway to Alaska should be completed to satisfy American desires irrespective of the burden of cost to be placed on the taxpayers of this province?" It follows this up with the following:

"The fact that Premier Pattullo should be engaged in negotiations with Washington calls for a good deal of explanation. To the lay observer it would seem that, preliminary to his visits there for the purposes noted, he and his government should have consulted the Legislature and obtained its opinion. The most serious aspect of the whole issue is that of foreign participation in the cost of construction of a roadway in Canada. If this is contemplated, there are certain to be repercussions which Mr. Pattullo does not seem to contemplate."

We will leave the "repercussions" for the Prime Minister to deal with. It is our wager, however, that the day this proposed highway from the United States to Alaska is begun will see the signal for the ushering in of a new and lasting prosperity for this province. But what is the implied error of judgment which Mr. Pattullo has perpetrated in stirring up enthusiasm for this project at Ottawa and Washington?

We cannot understand why our contemporary is not wholeheartedly backing this scheme on which the Pattullo government and practically every thinking person in this province have set their minds. If it was considered such an excellent proposal by the Colonist in 1930—before the depression had hit us seriously in British Columbia—why, when more revenue than ever is required by Finance Minister Hart to meet the province's obligations and reduce taxation, should it not support it at this stage?

This is what our contemporary said of the project as advocated by Premier Pattullo in 1930: "Dr. Tolmie, in promoting the British Columbia-Alaska road, has opened up a vista of doubling, trebling, perhaps quadrupling the tourist traffic to this province in the years to come. The Premier of this province deserves the utmost credit for his vision. Viewed from any angle, the project has possibilities that must redound to the advantage of the province. That is the conception which lies closely to Premier Tolmie's heart."

Nearly three weeks afterwards it had this to say: "Of the desirability of road connection from Seattle to Alaska by way of British Columbia, no two opinions are entertained on the American side. Our neighbors are enthusiastically in wholehearted support of the plan. Whatever success there is will owe much if not everything to the unwavering belief of Dr. Tolmie in the advantages that beckon to this new road construction. He is prepared to insure that British Columbia will do her part. The Americans will also do theirs. That means that the project will be started without undue delay. It will be an achievement the benefits of which will accumulate all the time, and for these the people will have every cause to thank their present Prime Minister, Dr. Tolmie."

Keep these thoughts in mind: If the United States votes money for this highway, it will be a first-class road. British Columbia at present has a population of about 800,000; if this thoroughfare is built through this province, we ought to have 1,000,000 people here within 10 years. In other words, British Columbia has the chance of her lifetime to do an excellent stroke of business for herself in many important particulars—and the last thing that should be introduced into any discussion of this proposal is village politics.

The Age of Reason

A LITTLE NEWS DISPATCH HAS COME from South America that ought to be clipped and filed away for occasional reference by people who are subject to attacks of unreasoning despair. A woman named Martina Zamudio tried to end her life by jumping into a river near Salto, in Argentina. She was 108 years old. She explained that she was "tired of living."

One might think that if Senora Zamudio was the kind of person who could turn to self-destruction simply out of boredom, she would have started for the river long before she reached the age of 108. But perhaps she cannot be judged by the standards that apply to persons of lesser age. She certainly found life worth while for a considerable period. Maybe at the age of 108 one becomes a little better qualified to judge whether life is or is not likely to hold anything more of value.

At any rate, everybody certainly ought to wait until 108 at the very least before even admitting the possibility of becoming qualified to judge. And then the best thing to do would be to talk it over with someone older who would know more about such things.

Danger of Alliances

IT HAS COME TO BE RECOGNIZED that in time of war it is necessary for alliances to be made—meaning, of course, that arrangements to meet possibilities must be carried out in advance. On the assumption, then, that war ought to be regarded as inevitable, it would seem to be wise for Great Britain to secure as many friendships as she can and to connect them with herself in the most practical fashion possible. Dispassionate students of history, particularly of British history, however, are issuing warnings to the Chamberlain government that Britain should move very slowly to come to so grave, so tragic a conclusion that another European war is, in fact, inevitable, and that she must figuratively move heaven and earth to provide against it by uniting with herself as many allies as she can.

Discussing this phase of the present policy of the Westminster government, Viscount Samuel told the House of Lords recently that often before it had been thought that wars were inevitable, yet the course of history had shown they were not. He put it this way: "In the time of Napoleon III it was currently believed in this country that a war between Britain and France was inevitable. Lord Grey of Fallodon mentions in his memoirs that at a moment of great strain between France and ourselves over Fashoda, when he was Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the nineties, it was urged upon him that, a war between France and Britain being inevitable, it was well to get it over as speedily as might be."

It is poor business to wage war to prevent war. The theory of a preventive war is far from a sound one. On this Viscount Samuel has elaborated: "History again shows that the nations of Europe, when they armed to make war against the French Revolution, committed a grave blunder. They helped to plunge Europe into bloodshed for 20 years. Again, when after the Great War we sent assistance to the White Armies in Russia against the Soviets, we took a step which was intended to prevent and obviate future wars, but which was exceedingly badly devised for that end. Alliances and the balance of power are a policy that does not guarantee peace, and history shows that it has never done so. In the eighteenth century when that policy was begun in the world, and officially supported constantly by British statesmen, Britain was at war for one year out of every two."

What's the good of a guest book? If you have one, you never have the kind of guests you'd like to have sign it.

Hitler will be remembered as the first patriot to settle in a foreign land and then return to get his native country.

Chamberlain's policy is based on his faith in Mussolini's word. It's going to be a cruel shock when some tough kid tells him about Santa Claus.

Comic strip artists are wasting their talent. Anybody who can think up that many ways to get people into trouble could make real money working for the munitions makers.

JELLY MEN

SOMETIMES I WONDER how a man can bear to make his living by proclaiming the virtues of face cream and jelly powders on the radio. I mean, there is something altogether revolting in the sound of a deep, manly voice telling America to take an egg and beat it up with an ounce of flour and some cream and vanilla flavoring and add a package of somebody's jelly powder to make the sweetest, toothiest, loveliest chocolate pudding you ever ate. I suppose a man must make a living somehow, but it is degrading. They should use women for this work.

It gives one a touch of nausea, too, when a six-foot radio announcer, who has played on an all-American football team, talks about the effect of somebody's skin lotion or the beauties of somebody's lipstick. I often wonder how such men endure the force economic stress of these times that force them into such jobs when, in a better age, they might be earning a good living as carpenters, ploughmen or janitors. In these times one must take what one can get, even if it is only jelly powders and lipstick, I suppose.

But I dare say after a big he-man with hair on his chest has finished a night's work drooling about jelly powders and lipsticks, he goes out and gets drunk to keep his self-respect. And I dare say not one of these lush-mouthed fellows, who can almost make you hungry for jelly even if you hate it, ever eats jelly himself. I bet they live on sauerkraut, tripe and raw onions.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

IN BRITAIN THE taxpayers are going to pay something over a quarter of their net income this year to help pay for the cost of government and armament. An ordinary man will work two or three months a year for the government, and to us in this country, who have never felt the pinch of the world's current madness, this seems like a dead loss of time. We forget that the British people get a lot of things for their money in the way of social services and a complicated mechanism of modern life, for England is fairly swarming with government officials of every sort. Indeed, you sometimes wonder as you see them who produces the wealth of the country which these multitudes of government employees supervise.

These things, as well as armaments, are expensive, and besides, Britain is now paying for the remarkable blunders of British policy from the autumn of 1918 onwards. Statesmen like Lloyd George (Versailles) and Sir John Simon (Munich) and Sir Samuel Hoare (Ethiopia) come high. You can't expect to enjoy such luxuries for a mere sixpence in the pound.

The stupidity on one side has been colossal—and we have always been a party to it—but the good temper of the British people in paying for it, and for many blunders and difficulties which they had nothing to do with creating, is almost beyond our Canadian understanding. It is true, of course, that in Canada about 25 cents of ever dollar you earn goes to one government or another, but if we had to pay even half the income tax of the average Briton the government which proposed it would fall immediately.

That would be the least of the inevitable consequences. If any such rate of taxation were proposed we would first repudiate our debts. If that wouldn't work, we would withdraw from Confederation. It is a literal fact that at its present, immature, soft-boiled state of development this country wouldn't endure such sacrifices. It would break up.

With the Briton the nation comes first and everything else is subordinate to it. With us nearly everything else comes first—our province, our city, our pocketbook—and the nation is the last thing most Canadians and most Canadian politicians ever think of.

PROGRESS REPORT

IT HAD LOOKED at first as if Shirley and Sheila wouldn't survive even this long. Bantam chicks, deserted by father and mother and brought up by a poor bachelor uncle, are not expected to be very hardy, and constant handling and mauling about by the little boy and girl from next door are not likely to improve anyone's health or disposition. However, the orphans, Shirley and Sheila, are still in reasonably good health, though a few feathers have been rubbed off them. Their owners from next door attribute the bantams' welfare to their careful diet, and I hand on this diet hint to anyone who is interested.

"If you'll notice," said the little girl from next door, "they eat earwigs all the time. That's why we're allowed to have them, because they eat the earwigs out of the garden. But if you'll notice, they always take an earwig and then they swallow a mouthful of chickweed or grass very quickly afterwards. That makes meat and green vegetables at every meal. That's what keeps them so healthy."

SPRING CROP

EVERY YEAR AT THIS TIME I assume the unpleasant duty of pointing to the spring crop along our highways for the reason that nobody else will point to it. The spring crop is coming along fine, a burst of colorful advertising signs, a pleasant contrast to the ugly dogwood blossoms, very attractive to those who don't enjoy wild flowers and natural scenery. The fact that it is unlawful to hang signs on the highways never bothers the large corporations who advertise in this fashion. They just go along thumbing their noses at the government, and the government, after a long time devoted to cogitation on so grave a matter, removes the signs at the expense of the taxpayer. The offenders are never prosecuted and never forced to pull the signs down themselves.

The result is that the signs usually remain up a season or two, and this probably is sufficient to satisfy the advertiser's needs. He has had his money's worth before the law catches him. There is only one way to halt this spring weed growth, and that is to get it out by the roots. The offenders should be prosecuted as you would be if you broke any other law.

Glasgow Shows the World How to Stage An Exhibition

Description by James A. Lewthwaite in the Overseas Daily Mail
TODAY in Bellahouston Park, Glasgow, a great Empire Exhibition has been opened. The King has trodden avenues and pathways in this magic city—highways that in the next six months are expected to attract 20,000,000 visitors. On a $50,000,000 stage will be a vivid, colorful display representative of all the resources and attractions of the British Commonwealth.

TEN MONTHS TO BUILD

During the past 10 months an army of workmen numbering at times as many as 5,000 have fashioned a wonder-town. A golf course has been erased to make way for some of the giant buildings—indeed, the Canadian Pavilion is set nicely in the former fairway of the first hole, and some of the other members of the British family are within easy missile shots.

More than 1,000 individual firms have booked space in this super showground. The number of exhibits is estimated at 250,000. On some days the attendance will approach 90,000. Once through the turnstiles—and these, set up at seven entrances, have been so arranged that people can be admitted at the rate of 3,000 a minute—visitors can spread themselves on the 10 miles of avenues and streets and the 25 miles of picturesque pathways.

OUTDOORS WEMBLEY

Such planning on a mighty scale was a feature of Wembley, but it is in graphic display that Bellahouston will excel.

Wembley was a "white" exhibition, Bellahouston now is bright with royal blues, yellows, reds, French greys and greens, a place of flags and banners, cascades and dancing fountains set off by the green lawns and happy confusion of 100,000 flowers, of great awnings and sun-shaded cafes. Lavish use is being made of mammoth models by the dominions and colonies.

THE DOMINIONS

Canada occupies 24,000 square feet, and her pavilion has a 100-foot tower. A colossal map made of burnished copper shows the distribution of her industries and agriculture; a touch of the romantic is introduced by a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are to parade at the entrance to the pavilion.

Australia, in addition to her wool displays, is showing her wealth in opals. A collection worth £20,000 is there, and there is also a reconstructed section of Australian forest land with trees and live birds.

South Africa, in a pavilion resembling a thatched farmhouse, has built vast models of her famous beauty spots. She has, too, a glittering display of diamonds.

AIRPORT MODEL

Ireland is stressing her coming importance as a trans-Atlantic air centre with a replica of the Shannon airport now under construction. She has also a model in silver of the Shannon hydro-electric scheme.

The British government is represented in various sections by a miniature blast furnace; a full-sized ship's bridge, complete with captain and officers, were modern directional apparatus may be inspected; and a radio room from a British destroyer with a crew of naval ratings; and in the health section an 11-foot transparent mechanical man will give health talks.

THE AREA COVERED

Bellahouston's 175 acres—the same area as that of the Paris Exhibition—compares with Wembley's 200, but the famous football stadium, Ibrox Park, which is close by, has been taken over for the exhibition sports festivals and displays.

Scotland is now ready to welcome the world to Bellahouston Park—and the world will not be disappointed. Scotland will see to that.

OLD COUNTRY WAGERS

From London Spectator

The Christian Social council computes that the money changing hands annually over football pools is £50,000,000; over dog racing £50,000,000; through gaming machines £10,000,000, and through the totalizer (on horse racing) £8,000,000. The total annual turnover is put at something between £350,000,000 and £500,000,000, the difference between the lower total and the sum of the individual figures quoted being presumably represented by ordinary betting on horse racing.

Better English

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "He said to wait for 10 minutes."
2. What is the correct pronunciation of "longevity"?
3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Column, volumn, autumn.
4. What does the word "decorous" mean?
5. What is a word beginning with fe that means "practicable; capable of being done"?

ANSWERS

1. Say, "He said that I (or you) should wait for 10 minutes." 2. Pronounce lon-jev-i-ti, o as in on, e as in bet, both i's as in it, acent second syllable; not lon-jev-i-ti. 3. Volume. 4. Suitable to the time, place, and occasion; proper. "A decorous speech." 5. Feasible.

DEMOCRACY'S ENEMIES?

The New Republic (New York)

Events have proved, as was feared, that Franco's overwhelming superiority in war material could not be matched in time on the Loyalist side, and consequently the rebels have, after hard fighting, reached the coast and cut Loyalist Spain in two parts. This is, of course, a major victory which may decide the issue of the war. It would be self-deception to entertain much hope; nevertheless there is hope as long as the government does not surrender. What has defeated democracy in Spain is, of course, not principally the Spanish Fascists and reactionaries, nor their Italian and German allies, nor the unholy concord with the Vatican, but the British Tories and the influence that they were able to exert in France and the United States which kept the Spanish government from receiving enough aid, while the infamous Nonintervention Agreement was being violated at will by Mussolini and Hitler. If that attitude can be reversed, even if it may not be too late. For the sake of honor, if for no better reason, the United States government should cast off the evil spell of the British government and permit the export of arms to the Spanish Loyalists.

It was tough, monotonous work, and without romance of any kind. The ship smelled terribly, the dead whales were worse, and there was nothing but work—Coast Guard, back from a 15-month whaling expedition, anxious to correct some erroneous impressions.

Parallel Thoughts

When Jesus heard it, He saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.—Mark 2:17.

He who seeks repentance for the past, should woo the angel virtue for the future.—Bulwer.

Pipers Prepare For Festival

Vancouver Island Pipers' Society Holds Rehearsal at Monthly Meeting

The skirl of bagpipes predominated Saturday night in the concert hall of the Britannia branch when the monthly meeting and social gathering of the Vancouver Island Pipers' Society took the form of a rehearsal for the piping contest at the musical festival, to be held next Saturday.

Captain Charles Wilson, president, was chairman of the well-attended meeting. Interesting talk on the history of the bagpipes was given by Duncan McBride. He said that the pipes had been traced as far back as 2,000 B.C., when they were used by the Chinese. He explained their place in the history of Egypt, Greece and Rome and also mentioned that the derivation of the pipe organ was to be found in the bagpipes.

Lieut. Col. Walter Barty in a short address spoke on the value of piping competitions, noting that they encouraged younger pipers to reach a higher stage of perfection. Col. Barty opened the proceedings by piping the Highland salute, "Scotland the Brave."

The program arranged by Major Donald Cameron was comprised of pipe selections by Colin P. Rutherford, Piper Knight of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish, and Pipers Knight and D. Miller; pipe quartettes by Corporal McLure and Pipers Knight, Crabb and Miller, of the 2nd Battalion; Highland dances, Strath-spey and Reel of Tulloch, by a quartette comprising James Macbeth, D. Macbeth, A. Pollock and C. P. Rutherford; sailor's horn-pipe, by James Macbeth, and songs by Captain J. Adams and R. Morrison. The retreat was sounded by Piper Knight and Bugler A. Moir.

RELIEF CAMP SALE IS ISSUE

A report that the provincial government had awarded a contract for demolishing an old relief camp at Antoine Creek, near Lillooet, to a Chinese, were flatly denied today by Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, who said that the lumber in the camp had been sold outright to Tan Louie, Ashcroft Chinese contractor, who submitted the highest bid.

Residents of Lillooet were reported protesting the "granting of a government contract to a Chinese." George M. Murray, Liberal member for Lillooet, said government officials had refused to be guided by his advice in the matter, and added that a precedent had been established which set aside legislative enactment covering such matters. Mr. MacPherson asserted that it was in no sense a government contract. The department, he said, called bids for purchasing the lumber in the camp, and Louie made the highest bid. The government then sold the lumber to him, just as a storekeeper would sell him a pound of sugar, he said.

Juice of the cashew nut is used in India as we use iodine, to treat cuts and abrasions.

Feature Service To Car Owners

Courtesy Backs Products, Says Sales Manager of Home Oil Distributors

Expressing what he terms as pardonable pride in the equipment and general set-up of the new Buckle Service Station located on Douglas at Fisgard Street, Les Martin, sales manager of the British Columbia owned independent oil company, whose products will be sold at the new modern station.

LES MARTIN is confident that Victoria people will appreciate the efforts of W. A. Buckle to give the last word in dignified yet efficient service.

"While the business of Home Oil Distributors has been built upon the policy of quality products manufactured in B.C. this year, special emphasis is being laid upon the friendly service of the independent Home Gas station operators," Mr. Martin stated.

"Other things being equal, the personality and sincerity of the men in charge of Home stations will be featured. When a man drives into a Home station he is entitled to genuine friendly service. It's the little things such as checking the tires, wiping off the windshield, checking the water in the radiator, as well as the oil in the crankcase, that shows customers how much their patronage is appreciated.

"We are pardonably proud of the modern equipment installed in the Buckle Station and are confident that with this fine new equipment and Mr. Buckle's penchant for personal service, the motor car owners of Victoria will show their appreciation in a tangible manner."

City Council Briefs

Purchase by the city of a 165-acre tract off the Malahat, draining into Sooke Lake, for $1,120 was authorized by the City Council on the recommendation of the water board last night.

Signs restricting motor speeds on roads immediately around Thetis Lake to 10 miles per hour will be placed in that area by the city engineer. On the council's instructions new seats there will be oiled, and barriers painted. Construction of dressing-rooms for bathers, at a cost of $125 was authorized by the council for that park.

A move to have special hours for the summer months in the City Hall was tabled one week for a report.

A petition from residents adjacent to the North Park Street plant of the New Method Laundry, objecting to noises and vibrations from the plant, was referred to the public works executive for action.

Chancery Lane, from Langley Street to Bastion Square was declared a one-way street on the recommendation of the public works committee, which also found support for recommendations calling for a $200 sewer project on Mt. Joy Heights, for a $149 surface drain on Prior Street, a $75 sidewalk on Rockwell Street, a $93 sidewalk on Wilson Street, the purchase of 60 gallons of street-marking paint from Staneland Company Limited, at $208, and the purchase of a new Chevrolet truck for the garbage department at a cost of $1,076.

A recommendation from the health committee, seeking amendment of present legislation to make milk producers delivering in the city meet the Preferred Raw rating or have their milk pasteurized, was tabled for one week. The action was sought by the South Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, Alderman John A. Worthington, health committee chairman, said.

Arrangements for the installation of 10 centre suspension lights on Yates Street from Cook to Fort Streets at a cost of $250 was approved by the council. Mayor Andrew McGavin cited accidents that had occurred on that stretch of roadway, noting they were attributed to poor illumination. Alderman W. L. Morgan thought the districts of James Bay and Victoria West should receive consideration before Yates Street was given more light.

Henry E. O. Hall and Thomas Crabbe were placed on the permanent staff of the city fire department and A. P. Perry and E. C. Tucker were put on six months' probation on the recommendation of the wardens. A motion to have relief firemen paid $22 a week was also carried.

The water board's plan of making bi-monthly collections of water bills and conducting certain reorganizations in the staff was approved. No one would be laid off, Alderman W. L. Morgan stated. The mayor declared the changes would effect a saving of about $5,000 a year.

A communication from Oak Bay regarding its plans for payment of water charges until a definite agreement was reached was received and filed.

The B.C. Electric Railway Company heads will discuss with the city the question of a minimum standby charge for electric elevators when they have received a report from their own department on the matter, the council was informed.

A communication from the Victoria Builders' Exchange Ltd. recommending Victoria adopt the policy of New Westminster and other municipalities in insisting people hold licenses before securing building permits was referred to the public works committee. The move, Alderman Ed. Williams stated, was aimed at producing more revenue for the city and "meant nothing" as far as the builders' exchange was concerned.

LOOK BOYS

a New C.C.M. with a Built-in "YALE" Lock

EVERY boy knows it is a good idea to lock his bicycle but he is not always successful in getting a really safe lock.

But now he can be sure that his bicycle is safely locked if it is a new C.C.M. Standard Roadster with a built-in "Yale" lock.

This smart new lock has been specially designed by the "Yale" and C.C.M. engineers to provide simple, convenient and positive protection for the new C.C.M.

Study the enlarged picture of this new lock and you will see how it is built right into the rear tubular fork of the bicycle. It is completely enclosed in its own little part of the fork. The key fits easily into the barrel lock and, when you turn it, a bolt is turned out between the spokes of the rear wheel, making it impossible to turn the wheel.

With this "Yale" lock on your new C.C.M. Standard Roadster, you can be sure that it is safely locked.

This new C.C.M. Model, like all C.C.M. Bicycles, is made with a frame of seamless steel tubing finished with several coats of baked-on enamel. It has the famous C.C.M. precision-built Triplex Hanger that makes C.C.M.'s so easy to pedal. Of course, it has the C.C.M. quick-acting coaster brake. All the bright parts are chromium-plated over C.C.M. 20-year nickel, the wheels have steel rims and rustless steel spokes, the tires are the well-known Dunlop "Fort".

When you are buying your new bicycle be sure to examine this fine new C.C.M. with the built-in "Yale" lock. See it at your nearest C.C.M. dealer's.

Prospects For Berries Good

Continuation of Present Weather Expected to Bring Rich Strawberry Harvest

"Continuation of the present 'farmers' weather' will bring as good a berry crop as we have ever had," Saanich berry growers said this morning when questioned on the prospects for this year's strawberry harvest.

H. E. Tanner, Keating grower, reported there had been a slight frost early yesterday morning, but it had done little damage. G. A. Vantreight, Gordon Head grower, said conditions in his vicinity had been ideal, and there was every prospect for a good season.

Both agreed that present weather was ideal and as long as it continued to be clear and warm, with occasional rain, what they called "farmers' weather," the crop would be excellent.

Mr. Vantreight figured the first picking of berries would start around the first week in June. "I think it will be about June 12. Keep a check and see how close I am," he suggested. All berries had wintered well, he added. Mr. Tanner thought the harvest would start around the end of this month "if the weather behaves."

Aviation gasoline was once used only as a standard of comparison of anti-knock values, but last year about 2,000,000 gallons were made and marketed.

Fine Report Given
At Meeting
At "Molton Combe"

Victoria East district Girl Guides Association held their annual meeting last night at "Molton Combe," Newport Avenue, by kind invitation of Mrs. Curtis Sampson. Mrs. L. A. Genge, district commissioner, presided and about 30 members were present.

Excellent reports were given by the Guides of the year's work, showing encouraging achievement in various fields of activity. Mrs. McKelvie gave an interesting resume of the recent provincial meeting.

Warrants were issued for Frances Law, lieutenant in the Joan of Arc troop; Doreen Wilson, Tawny Owl of the Gonzales pack, and Winnifred Lees, Tawny Owl of the Oaklands pack. The Rangers told of meeting the American Girl Scouts on their recent visit to Victoria and participating in the entertainment arranged in their honor.

Mrs. Curtis Sampson spoke of the progress made in the new clubhouse at the Sooko camp. Mrs. G. Lillie, badge convener, reported over 100 badges awarded this year.

Plans were made for the annual garden party to be held at "Molton Combe" on June 18.

The election of officers resulted in the return by acclamation of Mrs. L. A. Genge, district commissioner; Miss "Boo" Wilson, secretary, and Miss A. B. Cooke, treasurer.

At the close of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

SPRING FEVER

"Spring Fever" is brought on by poisonous wastes which clog your child's foodways and undermine vitality. Needed is the gentle flushing action of Eno's "Fruit Salt"—to clear the digestive tract and neutralize hyperacidity. Eno is pleasant-tasting, safe, and much more effective than "sulphur and molasses".

Weddings

WOODWARD-McNEIL

Primroses, daffodils and hyacinths were arranged as the floral background at All Saint's Church, Alberni, Sunday at 2 for the wedding of Patricia Viola, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodward, to Mr. Wm. McNeil of Victoria, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McNeil of Glasgow, Scotland.

Rev. Glen Stevenson officiated and Mr. Max Clarke Wright presided at the organ, while Mr. Colvin Woodward, brother of the bride, supported the bridegroom. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her traveling ensemble of sapphire blue gabardine with semi-bonnet model-hat, in darker tones of blue, with abbreviated veil, and a corsage bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Colvin Woodward, as matron of honor, was attired in a dove grey tailored suit with matching hat and a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Woodward, mother of the bride, received the guests wearing a sapphire blue svelte cloth, with shoulder spray of roses. Mrs. A. Everett and Miss Roberta Adams assisted the hostess in her duties. Roses and lilies flanked the three-tiered wedding cake on the lace-covered table, and profusions of spring blossoms were used throughout the rooms.

Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. McNeil left for Victoria where they will take up residence at Pembroke Street. Out of town guests included Mrs. May Butterfield and Miss Joan Butterfield of New Westminster, aunt and cousin of the bride, and Miss Breda Taylor of Chilliwack, cousin of the bride.

BANKS-DIXON

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday evening, April 30, at 7 in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Ven. Archdeacon A. E. Nunns united in marriage Edna May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isiah Dixon, James Island, to Mr. Douglas Banks, Esquimalt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked pretty in a pink crepe-de-chine dress, with oolero and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and lily of the valley. Her only attendant, Mrs. May Crowe, sister of the groom, was attired in blue georgette, with blue accessories, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and fern. Mr. Cecil Davis Dixon, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. E. Halsall, Uplands, Uplands, after which the happy couple left on a short honeymoon to the north of the island. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Banks will reside on James Island.

International Trousseau For Bride

LONDON—A trousseau made in a number of different countries was collected by Princess Kyra of Russia, who married Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia at Doorn yesterday.

Most of her lingerie was made by Russian women in exile. The princess likes heavy white silk, crepe and nylon, and garments made in these materials are exquisitely embroidered, or trimmed with hand-made lace.

From England she bought tailored suits as she plans to spend part of her honeymoon here, and will attend race meetings and country house parties. The princess also likes English accessories and has chosen a number of smart belts and bags from Bond Street shops.

From Germany came a number of light summer frocks, and the bridal gown itself was made in Paris. The smart dress designer in The Hague, who makes most of Princess Juliana's clothes, made the princess's afternoon dresses.

A special musical program will be presented by the hotel augmented orchestra during the "Flower Tea" at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday. The numbers will include: "Valse des Fleurs," "Whispering Willows," "Narcissus," "Miss Springtime," "Naila Ballet Music," "Dance of the Hours," "Trees," "Spanish Serenade," "Wedding of the Rose," selection from "Maytime" and "To a Wild Rose."

Deanna Durbin Earned $165,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Deanna Durbin has earned $165,000 from the movies and radio in the last 27 months, it was disclosed yesterday in a court case involving an agent's commissions.

Judge Joseph Vickers awarded $4,139.86 paid by Jack Sherill and Frederick Fallin, Deanna's agents, to Rita Stanwood Warner, former wife of H. B. Warner, veteran film actor. Mrs. Warner contended she brought Miss Durbin to the agents and was to get one-fourth of the 10 per cent commissions from the girl's salaries. The court ascertained Deanna earned $165,000 between January 1, 1936, and March 31, 1938.

Women Speak Frankly In House

British Members Active In Debates on Crisis

By MOLLY MCGEE
Canadian Press Correspondent
LONDON (CP) — Women members of the British House of Commons have taken an active part in the serious international crisis debates held lately.

Chief feminine speaker was the energetic Duchess of Atholl who is usually referred to as "The Duchess" by parliamentarians and does not inspire quite the same camaraderie as the other titled member, Viscountess Astor, who is known far and wide as "Nancy" Astor. Together, however, these two Conservatives have a reputation for frank speaking that is not exceeded even by Ellen Wilkinson of the Labor ranks.

HUSBAND'S PLAIN

It is in regard to Spain in particular that Katharine, Duchess of Atholl, airs her views, and not so long ago her soldier husband, elderly, dignified peer, rose grumbling from his seat in the House of Lords to reply to references made to the Duchess's speeches in the Commons. "My wife's always getting me into trouble" was his first sentence.

Since she left Wimbledon High School, the Duchess has been interested in public affairs. Her self-organized tour of the Spanish front in company of Ellen Wilkinson and Eleanor Rathbone was the latest venture in an adventurous career.

Smart, grey-haired, worldly wise and shrewd, she is completely self-possessed in the House. Her speeches are clear and scholarly though her viewpoint in politics appears to have shifted in the last few years from extreme right to about as far left as a Conservative can go.

FIERY OPPONENT

Directly across the House from the Duchess and behind the leader of the opposition, C. R. Attlee, sits red-headed Miss Wilkinson, always on the edge of her chair, chirpy as a canary with her interruptions and out of her seat on the slightest provocation. Ellen wears no hat. Her unruly mop has blown free since the days when she interested working women in Equal Suffrage in 1913-1915. On the same platform she learned the art of heckling and questioning that makes her a formidable opponent in the Commons. Nor does she spare her own sex. "The noble lady whose husband owns newspapers" was her recent reference to Lady Astor.

Her oratory still has the zest of the suffragette, her remarks the ready wit of England's working class, yet Ellen has her university degree from Manchester. Her favorite occupations are reading and chess and she is the most prolific writer among women in parliament.

Lady Astor is recognized as the most active of political hostesses and her expressed enthusiasm for Anglo-German friendship has caused a storm. As usual being herself is her main asset and she is carrying on in misadventures that are direct and to the point, stating her purpose, denying rumors.

VISITED SPAIN

Miss Rathbone, who has also been appearing in Hansard, is of the older, more reticent generation and is rarely addressed in any other way, though her first name is Eleanor. Her visit to Spain provoked her to firm, well-expressed speeches in the House though not to unseemly interruptions. With all the well-trained ability of an early daughter of Somerville College, Oxford, she is a firm supporter of her more excitable colleagues, though her main interest is family welfare and the betterment of conditions for women.

Behind scenes in parliament, no one has mattered more lately than Miss Thelma Cazalet. "Always on time, always dependable, always ready to speak well on any given subject" is Thelma Cazalet's reputation with members of her various committees. As a background she has had 10 years experience in local government work and was a hard working official in that almost breath-takingly efficient organization, the London County Council.

Mrs. Bessie Taylor, president of the Rebekah Assembly, will visit Carne Lodge No. 45 and Colfax No. 1 jointly on Thursday evening, lodge opening at 8. Members of both lodges are requested to attend. A banquet will be held following the meeting. On Friday a tea will be held in honor of the president in Spencer's dining-room at 3.30. For reservations, please phone E 1294 before Thursday afternoon.

Environment Influences Child

More Important Than Heredity, Says Psychologist

NEW YORK (CP) — There is no correlation between the intelligence of children and their parents; and the influence of environment determines the growth or decline of children's intellectual development, according to the report of a 15-year study of children by Dr. Harold Steels and Dr. Beth Wellman of the Iowa University Child Welfare Station.

Dr. Steels, psychologist for the Iowa State Board of Control, has discovered that underprivileged children, taken from inadequate environment and placed in foster homes, respond to love, interest and comfort by remarkable intellectual gains.

He finds no correlation between the intelligence of true parents and their children, but notes the longer small boys and girls remain in poor surroundings, the duller they become. He points out that if these children are removed early enough to foster homes they have a good chance to reach normal or superior mental achievement.

Dr. Wellman has recorded that higher intelligence levels are the rule rather than exception following the stimulating atmosphere of nursery schools. Significantly, during summer vacations at home, without the incentive of school and influence of companionship, children show little or no development.

Miss Wellman studied the later progress of many boys and girls who received careful and sympathetic early training and discovered those transferred to progressive institutions of this type continued to gain in intelligence, while those who entered less progressive schools lost considerable ground.

"Children thrive best," Dr. Wellman concludes, "in schools where they are taught to think for themselves instead of obeying blindly. They do best in groups with children with capabilities as great or better than their own."

BUY YOUR MOTOR CAR WISELY

RIDE...DRIVE...COMPARE

1 Buying a Car is probably the most important decision in your lifetime, next to your home. Isn't it just good sense to get all the facts, investigate claims? It stands to reason you can't know Plymouth's amazing new ride until you drive the car. See your nearest Chrysler-Plymouth dealer.

2 Used-Car Dealers put a higher resale value on Plymouth than on any of its competitors. Reason? Better engineering . . . all-steel body, X-braced frame, hydraulic brakes, full-length water jackets.

3 Plymouth's Pistons have four rings, instead of the usual three. They hold compression better, longer—save oil—help add to Plymouth's big resale value.

4 Exhaust Valve Seat Inserts . . . another economy advantage. They resist heat and wear . . . stand up better . . . postpone valve-grindings for many thousands of miles.

5 Heart of the 6-Cylinder L-Head Engine—Plymouth's four-bearing crankshaft and aluminum alloy pistons . . . they give quicker pick-up. You get full-pressure lubrication, silent, chain-driven camshaft, patented Floating Power engine mountings . . . unusual long-life features.

6 The Padded Roll on this seat is part of Plymouth's extra safety. And Plymouth has Safety Glass throughout . . . plus smooth, sure, Chrysler double-action equal-pressure hydraulic brakes!

7 Comfort Every Mile. Plymouth's big air-plane-type shock absorbers, "live" rubber body mountings and "radio studio" sound-proofing block out jolts, bumps, road noise, rumble and vibration. Restful ease!

8 THE 1938 PLYMOUTH IS BIG . . . Roomy—Nearly 7 inches longer than one of the other two leading low-priced cars . . . more than 10 inches longer than the other. Economical . . . Owners report 21 to 24 miles to a gallon of gas . . . 20% savings in oil. And remember, although bigger and roomier, Plymouth is priced with the lowest! City Council Hears Report On Activities Listed For This Year

The resignation of Alderman Ed. Williams from the post of celebration committee chairman was accepted with regret by the City Council last night, and Alderman W. H. Davies, a member of the group, was appointed to succeed him. In addition, Alderman W. L. Morgan was named to the committee.

Acceptance of Alderman Williams' resignation was made following a summary of festive activities listed for the year. The committee reported that in addition to the school children's pageant in the Athletic Park on May 24 morning, a baseball game was being arranged for that enclosure in the afternoon.

Plans were being made for a band to attend the gymkhana at the Willows on the afternoon, and arrangements were nearing completion for an illuminated parade through Beacon Hill Park in the evening.

On July 1 massed choirs and bands will perform in a festive program preceding a parade of soldiers, naval men and veterans in uniform.

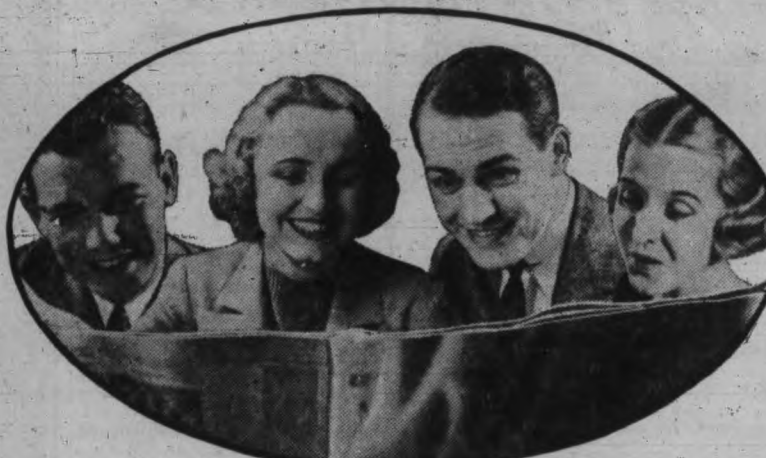

BRITISH SHIP COMING
At the end of July or early in August: Navy Week festivities will include events in which the men of a British warship will participate. A street parade was being organized by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, to which the city had agreed to advance $3,000 on the understanding that money would be paid back from proceeds of a queen contest, the report stated.

The committee had also arranged for the erection of a big flagpole in Beacon Hill Park. Alderman Williams explained pressure of business, as well as his health, had forced him to retire from the chairmanship of the group. The committee, he said, had worked hard and harmoniously in the interests of the city. He paid tribute to his fellow workers and voiced confidence in the ability of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to carry through its part of the program.

SOVIET AND LEAGUE MOSCOW (CP-Havas)—Contrary to current rumors, it was authoritatively stated here today the Soviet Union will be represented at the May session of the League of Nations Council, which is to discuss recognition of Italy's Ethiopian conquest.

Washington Is Surprise

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

RICHLY-PEOPLED with unforgettable figures and dramatic memories, the pages of golf history are volumes deep in thrills. But today, almost 25 years later, September 20, 1913, still remains as one of golf's most important dates. And Francis Ouimet one of its greatest heroes. United States golf this summer will pay tribute to Ouimet's feat with tournaments all over the country.

It has been recognized that Ouimet's triumph in the 1913 United States Open made that nation golf conscious. The unheralded former caddy boy's victory in a playoff with Harry Vardon and Ted Ray captured the imagination of the man in the street. It was the opening wedge in the drive that has brought the game its mass popularity.

Before that, golf had been a rich man's game. There were no public links. Equipment cost too much, in addition to the price of playing privileges. Only a few who owned the mint—or its equivalent—could play the game. Everything about it was lavish and extravagant. This, at least, was the popular conception.

But Francis Ouimet changed all that. Here was a poor caddy going out and beating England's mightiest heroes at their own game. For Vardon and Ray were just that. Their invincibility was almost legendary. And on that September afternoon, Ouimet became a path-blazer. He touched off the needed spark.

The golfers themselves are all anxious to take part in the Ouimet tournaments. They know the debt they owe him. Though he has never left the amateur ranks they look upon him as a guiding apostle. He's tops in their books. "We all owe," explained one prominent U.S. pro, "an unbelievably large debt to Ouimet. He's responsible in great measure for whatever prestige we have achieved. He figuratively lined out pockets with silver when he won that day in 1913. And we have never forgotten it."

Being a very practical business man, it took Bill Terry no time to test one of baseball's time-honored axioms—"Pitching is 70 per cent of the game." In his first full year as manager of the New York Giants, Terry applied the 70 per cent theory and it paid him 100 per cent dividends with the National League pennant and the world championship in 1933.

Ever since then Terry has concentrated on pitching with the Giants, and the results have been uniformly successful. Keeping that 70 per cent on Terry's side of the books presents a major problem for him this season. Still the outlook is no blacker than it was five years ago when the Giants drove through to a pennant which only one of 200-odd experts predicted for them.

Terry now is working like a jigsaw addict on his 1938 staff, moving one piece here and another there, trying to fit them all into the whole which will sweep the Giants to their third National pennant. The keystone pieces of his staff, of course, are Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton, who started the league with 20 victories as a freshman. Because of the rubber qualities of his arm, Melton may be the useful man of the flock, to be thrown into the breach as either starter or relief fliker. In short, Melton will assume part of the double burden which Hubbell has carried ever since Terry first assumed the manager's role.

Plan to Form Baseball Loop

Plans for a four-team baseball league will be discussed tonight at a meeting in the Colonist board room at 8, with anyone interested in the game invited to attend. Navy, Capitals, Victoria Sultans and Eagles will be represented at the meeting.

Senators Upset Baseball Dope By Holding Second Place in American Loop

While the next couple of weeks of inter-sectional scrapping may present a different picture, two of the biggest surprises so far in the major league season come from Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers.

Washington opens its first home stand against the western clubs of the American League today in second place, and Detroit starts east tied with St. Louis Browns for sixth. That just reverses the way they were packed in the Associated Press spring poll.

The Senators, of course, have profited by the weakness of Philadelphia Athletics, winning four out of five from them, but they're still a half-game ahead of Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees, who have been playing the same kind of opposition.

They gave the Yanks a whale of a tussle yesterday before going down 3 to 2, and they may make trouble for Cleveland when the league-leading Indians invade the capital today. After the Yanks revised batting order, with Lou Gehrig down in sixth place, had hopped on Jimmy Deshong for a 3 to 0 lead, the Senators started a comeback that drove Monte Pearson to cover and had the bases full in the eighth before Johnny Murphy checked the threat.

HOMER FOR DIMAGGIO

Joe DiMaggio's second homer in two days was the big Yankee blow, but it was Joe's error, too, that gave the Nats their second run.

Detroit's main difficulty has been too much Cleveland, as the Tigers have lost five out of six to Oscar Vitt's men. But they haven't been hitting in the clutches, and except for Eldon Auker the pitchers haven't been consistent.

Rookie Woodrow Davis was the only one who could check the Tribe's slugging yesterday, but he didn't come in until a 10-run uprising in the fourth had ruined any faint hope of victory the Tigers might have had. Indians won 11 to 3.

New York Giants, invincible against the eastern clubs of the National League, polished off Brooklyn for the sixth time, 7 to 4, in their last home game before starting west. A combination of six-hit flinging by Cliff Melton and homers by Jimmy Rippe, Hank Leibner and Joe Moore proved too much for the Dodgers.

Cincinnati Reds, who tackle the champions next, tuned up with their third straight triumph over Pittsburgh, 8 to 6. Two homers by Ival Goodman paced the Reds and, incidentally, gave Goodman the big league lead in four-base swatting.

St. Louis Cardinals, with Joe Medwick leading a typical "gas house" uprising, belted Chicago Cubs 6 to 3, while Boston's Red Sox routed the Athletics, 13 to 1, in the other big league game.

BOXLA SEASON OPENS MAY 19

Commission Arranges Opening Games in Three Divisions; 14 Teams Entered

While scores of youths bubbling with enthusiasm commandeered city parks, vacant lots and back yards to polish up on their stick-handling performances yesterday afternoon, Victoria's box lacrosse fathers gathered in the offices of chairman W. C. Moresby, K.C., and decided to usher in the 1938 season on May 19, for which day two skirmishes were arranged.

To date 14 teams have registered for entry in the three circuits that will operate under the jurisdiction of the Victoria Box Lacrosse Commission, and a few more are expected before the opening date. At least two more teams have signified their intentions of entering, and the commission urges all other teams contemplating entry to register as soon as possible.

NO SCHEDULE, YET

The commissioners at this early date were unable to draft a complete schedule, as there is some indecision over the boxes, but arranged opening games in the three divisions—senior B, intermediate and junior.

The Victoria West Park enclosure will be ready for use, but construction of the Beacon Hill box has not begun yet. The commission is endeavoring to have the Athletic Park box moved over to Stevenson Memorial Park, as it is believed it will conflict with other sports at the Athletic. All of which makes it difficult to map out an accurate schedule. However, this will be done as soon as these obstacles are removed.

If present plans materialize it is the intention to floodlight the Stevenson Park box for night games, including matches between imported teams.

Opening games in the three divisions follow:

INTERMEDIATE SECTION

May 19—Bluebirds vs. James Bay, Victoria West Park, 6:15; Princes of Syracuse vs. Oaklands, Athletic Park, 6:15; Esquimalt, bye.

JUNIOR SECTION

May 20—Times Terriers vs. James Bay, Victoria West Park, 6:15; Princes of Syracuse vs. Oaklands, Athletic Park, 6:15 (four teams).

SENIOR B SECTION

May 24—Canucks vs. James Bay, Victoria West Park, 3 in afternoon; May 25—Navy vs. Island Building Supply, Naval Barracks, 8 (under floodlights); Victoria Indians, bye.

Washington Owner Wants to Promote Race Between Case and Chapman

WASHINGTON—A foot race to determine the fastest player in the American League was in the making today.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, who thinks his rookie, George Washington Case, can raise dust in any other speedster's face, has picked Ben Chapman as the man Case must beat.

Offering a purse of $200 to the winner of a straightaway sprint, Griffith stipulated the race be run May 28, when Chapman's team, the Boston Red Sox, comes again to the capital.

Case readily accepted his boss's offer, but word comes that Chapman is a holdout. He wants Griffith to raise the ante to $500.

WINSETT SOLD

NEW YORK — Brooklyn Dodgers last night announced the sale of outfielder Jack (Long Tom) Winsett to Jersey City of the International League. Winsett, a left-handed hitter, batted .237 for Brooklyn last year.

SOFTBALL GAME

Weather permitting a softball game will be played tonight at the Oak Bay Park at 6:15, between the Oak Bay Wanderers and the Motor House Chev's.

Fleet-footed Seabiscuit, arriving in New York for his $100,000 Memorial Day match with War Admiral, said "Neigh, neigh" to a request for a pre-race statement, but the mere idea of losing to the Admiral elicited the hearty horse laugh pictured above.

Cotton Draws Fire

LONDON—Many golf professionals today expressed criticism because Henry Cotton, British open golf champion, failed to compete in the £1,000 ($5,000) Dunlop-Southport tournament after filing an entry.

He gave his reasons that he did not approve a 36-hole qualifying round, he does not like short courses, the ground is too hard and, anyway, he is busy.

FRED CABELLU

VANCOUVER—Fred Cabellu of Victoria was elected president of the British Columbia Rugby Union at the annual meeting over the weekend.

Aubrey Vaughan of Vancouver was named secretary.

Victoria delegates were Major Stuart Robertson and H. J. Ketchen.

The meeting turned down a bid by University of British Columbia for a vote on the executive and left the governing body equally divided between Vancouver and Victoria. H. W. Peterson joined Vaughan as Vancouver representative. Victoria had protested Varsity's bid which would have given the mainland a majority on the executive.

Invitations for a team to tour England and California were discussed, but no action taken.

BROWN AND TODD HIGH

Turn in Leading Scores For Opening Shoot of Victoria Skeet Club

President Ernie Todd and Cecil Brown posted top scores in the opening trophy shoot held over the week-end by the Victoria Skeet and Gun Club on the Albert Head Road Club grounds.

Todd marked up a 23 out of a possible 25 in the opening round in the skeet competition for the C.L.L. Trophy, and Brown turned in the excellent score of 24 out of 25 to head the trapshooters' contesting for the H. A. Humber handicap trophy.

A high wind prevailed, making the clay targets more elusive than ever, but nevertheless some good scores were posted. Trophy competitions will be held bi-weekly and at the end of the season the marksmen with the best scores will take the trophies. There was a good attendance of spectators for the opening round. Big Entry Promises Action

League Announces 21 Clubs Entered; Last Year's Champions Break Up

Ball! Strike! Foul Ball!—the raucous cries of the softball umpires—will once again boom out over city park diamonds Monday evening when Lower Island Softball Association nines go into action for another season that promises many keen battles.

Up to Saturday noon 21 teams had filed entries with secretary Ernie Oliver and assistant secretary Alf Longley and a number of others are expected shortly. There will be four divisions for men's teams and one for women this year.

Painter's Bruins and New Method Laundry, champions and runners-up, respectively, last year have broken up and the players have settled themselves with other clubs, which should be a strengthening influence to those teams and provide much closer competition. The Bruins have gone over to the Hollywood club, Camerons and the Longshoremen and New Method players have signed up with Burns and Company and the Longshoremen.

Teams have not been split up into their respective divisions yet, and as soon as that is done a schedule will be drafted.

Alf Longley urges all players to end in their registration forms immediately.

The entries received up to noon Saturday follow: Belmonts, Esquimalt Millionaires, Cameron Lumber Company (two teams), Motor House, Canadian Scottish, Victoria Brass and Iron, Colwood, Burns and Company, Saanich Aces, Saanichton, Victoria Longshoremen, Emisco, Victoria Times, K. of C., Hollywood Club (two teams), Odd Fellows, Marigold and North Saanich.

BIG WELCOME TO WESTERNS

Canadian Basketball Monarchs Join in Parade of Champions at Vancouver

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Westerns, 1938 Canadian men's basketball champions, returned home yesterday to receive a wild reception from thousands of admiring fans.

Sweethearts, mothers, friends and civic dignitaries met them at the railway station. Highlight of the welcome was a victory parade of sports champions through the downtown streets.

Westerns headed the procession. In the parade were the Trail Smoke Eaters, Canadian amateur hockey champions, New Westminster Salmonbellies, Canadian lacrosse champions, and Vancouver Johnson's, Dominion soccer titlholders.

Johnny Samis, Canadian badminton titlholder, and Vancouver member of the Canadian team to the last British Empire Games at Sydney, also joined the march.

Interviewed, the boys could only say that they were "glad to be home." They all agreed, however, Winnipeg had treated them royally.

WILD RECEPTION

The team was given a civic reception and banquet at Winnipeg last week when they returned after beating Ottawa Gleebs in the finals.

Outside the station the reception was the wildest and noisiest—they were forced to push their way to waiting cars.

It took nearly half an hour to start the parade because of the crowd.

After the parade, Captain Wally Mayers was presented with the Montreal Sportsman's Cup, emblematic of the championship, by Walter Hardwick, president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association.

The team will be guests at a series of banquets and dances during the week.

WINS HODGES CUP

The finals of the annual handicap competition for the Hodges Cup were played at the Gorge Vale Golf Club on Saturday. Miss Esther Smith was the winner, defeating Mrs. L. Silburn, 4 and 3.

SAN FRANCISCO — Fred Apostoli, San Francisco middleweight contender, underwent an appendectomy yesterday, and Dr. T. T. Shea of St. Mary's Hospital reported the fighter was resting comfortably.

Records of Speed
2-FAST SWIMMERS

Eight years ago last month, a girl not quite 17 years of age started surprising the world. Swimming at St. Augustine, Florida, also at Miami and Jacksonville, she broke record after record.

Helene Madison, at 17, breaking a swimming record.

In a year, Helene broke 12 world's records. Her mark for a mile was 24 minutes and 34 seconds, and this record still stands as the best for women.

Men can swim somewhat faster than women. Medica, noted American swimmer, covered a mile in 20 minutes and 57 seconds. Johnny Weismuller set up a 100-yard record for men of 51 seconds.

A man swimming as fast as Weismuller would have no trouble catching up to a carp, a perch or most other fresh water fish. He could not, however, overtake a salmon swimming at full speed. Salmon go through the water almost twice as fast as the best human swimmers.

Although salmon pass up and down rivers, they spend about half their lives in ocean waters. Out in the ocean they do not compare in speed with some other fish.

A salmon's fast-swimming speed is given as seven miles per hour. Swordfish and big sea mackerel can swim at from 20 to 30 miles per hour, and probably go much faster than that at times.

Large ocean liners can go faster than most ocean fish. The Normandie and the Queen Mary make speeds of from 30 to 35 miles per hour as they cross the Atlantic.

The liners are not, however, the fastest things on water. Motorboats often make more than a mile a minute.

The world's record for a single-engine motorboat was made by the Miss Britain III. It traveled at a speed of 111 miles per hour. Even that is not the highest rate of travel. Speedboats with more than one engine have gone even faster.

In recent years, motorboats of the United States and Great Britain have broken all previous records. Gar Wood drove Miss America X at the rate of almost 125 miles per hour. Later this record was broken by Campbell with his Bluebird, which shot across the water at the rate of more than 129 miles per hour.

When a motorboat goes at such speed, only a small part of it besides the propeller touches the water. This makes the friction small. Think of going more than two miles a minute in a boat!

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1938

Benefic aspects rule strongly today, according to astrology. It is a date for pushing business and professional matters of importance.

The stars encourage those who seek employment, especially well-trained young men and young women. Demand for chemists, physicians and surgeons is forecast.

The seers urge men and women to think constructively and unselfishly as they contemplate world confusion. The United States will maintain its commanding position among all nations.

Added strength for the British government is indicated, and close relations with the United States will prevail. It is prognosticated.

The wise will plant gardens and conserve food supplies. Nature will conspire with hostile forces affecting agricultural products. Agriculturists and horticulturists will encounter many new pests.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unexpected experiences. There may be financial disappointments, but there should be adequate income. Children born on this day probably will be high-strung, sensitive and talented. These subjects of Taurus may be exceedingly self-willed.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Sixteen years ago, before my baby was born, my husband deserted me for another woman. In the nerve-racking months that followed my family cared for me. Since then I have not heard from him, but now out of a clear sky he desires a reconciliation with me. He claims that he was young and foolish when he left me. Perhaps he was, as we were married right after the war when everybody was bubbling over with war-mad romance. Do you think that two persons separated so long a time could possibly pick up the broken threads of a wrecked love and still find peace and comfort for approaching middle life? I'll admit that I still care a bit, but my family violently opposes it. What do you think?

Answer—I think that there is nothing else on earth so strange and incomprehensible as a woman's heart. The mystery of mysteries is how some women can go on loving the unlovable, believing in those who have shown themselves utterly untrustworthy and hoping that the impossible will happen.

If any man is a dastard, it is the one who forsakes his wife in her direct hour of need; who walks off with another woman, leaving her to go alone down into the valley of the shadow to bring up his child; who adds the agony of jealousy to the agony of childbirth for her to bear.

Sixteen years he has left you to struggle along alone and to work for your child and rear it. Sixteen years without a word from him. Without a sign of repentance or even regret for the way he treated you. And now he comes back and expects you to forget and forgive, love and cherish him and make him comfortable for the balance of his life. And I'll bet my new hat that he is coming back poor and sick and needing somebody to support him.

If you even consider taking him back I think you should have your head examined for the sillies. He has shown he has no principle, no honor, no sense of duty or obligation, not one quality that goes to make a decent man. What do you want with him?

DOROTHY DIX.

M.P.'s Hear Hint
Of Lower Taxes

Labor Minister Suggests
That as Attack on Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP)—A hint—the government may employ its fiscal policy to lower tariff and taxation, and explore credit control possibilities in dealing with the unemployment problem, was given in the House of Commons yesterday by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, but the move in that direction would have to be slow.

In a welter of suggestions and criticisms, Mr. Rogers gave a brief inkling of what was in his mind, but repeated his declaration that only when the supplementary estimates were introduced would the government's detailed plans be disclosed.

Outstanding among the fresh suggestions were those of George E. Wood, Liberal, Brant, Ont., who urged a $100,000,000 subsidy for industry and a social security scheme to be embarked on once employment is more nearly normal.

While the whole Monday was devoted to debate of the unemployment and farm relief bill in committee, the House for more than two hours turned aside from the actual relief discussion to talk of the need of the Peace River district for a highway outlet to the British Columbia coast. This project was first raised by Rene A. Pelletier, youngest member of the House who in his 30th year represents Peace River as a Social Credit member.

J. G. Turgeon, Liberal, Cariboo, found himself in agreement with Mr. Pelletier as to the need for an outlet, but they battled bitterly as to what was being done by the present government and as to routes. Conservative Leader Bennett also urged the need for a highway outlet to the Pacific coast, and said it would have been built had his party remained in office.

ALASKA ROAD

H. J. Barber, Conservative, Fraser Valley, said he understood Premier Pattullo of British Columbia was "wearing a path" between Ottawa and Washington, and wondered if those international negotiations were going on with the knowledge and approval of the federal government.

Mr. Rogers said he could give the House no information at the moment with respect to the proposed road to Alaska.

Nanaimo Passes
$290,000 Budget

NANAIMO—No change will be made in the Nanaimo mill rate this year, it was revealed at the City Council meeting last night with the passing of a by-law fixing the mill rate at 40, as follows: 22.09 mills for debt charges; 22.21 for school purposes, and 15.7 mills for general purposes.

Another by-law passed authorized the necessary amount to be raised for the sinking fund. The financial statement for the year showed an additional $5,500 had to be appropriated for unemployment relief, and $5,000 additional must further be raised if the government does not give financial assistance.

Annual estimates passed total $292,000, including general administration, $13,000; streets department, $10,000; waterworks, $20,000; school, $77,417; unemployment relief charities, $18,500; coupon interest on sinking fund totaled $77,417.

Alderman Drake and Alderman Muir also objected to moneys collected for a 50-cent raise in water rates earmarked for improvements to the system being used for other purposes.

Robert Thompson and James Evans were appointed caretakers of the children's playgrounds.

Earthquake Here

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A heavy earthquake shook Mexico City tonight at 8:16 C.S.T. (9:16 E.S.T.).

Extent of the damage was not immediately determined. Dominion Meteorological Observatory officials here today said a moderate earthquake was recorded on the Observatory seismograph at 6:22:28 last night, lasting for a period of 15 minutes.

The centre of the disturbance was placed at 2,730 miles from here in a southeasterly direction, probably in the southern part of Mexico, officials said.

Two Sentenced To Two Years

VANCOUVER (CP)—Charles Baynes and Lew Vosper pleaded guilty in police court today to passing forged money orders, and each was sentenced to two years, less one day, in jail.

The men were arrested after Royal Canadian Mounted Police had investigated reports that several money orders "raised" from 25 cents to $25 had been passed in the city.

BOY IN RIVER
SAVED BY MAN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 10-year-old lad of Haney, B.C., today owed his life to Carl Daisley, a member of the crew of the Vancouver fireboat.

The boy, whose last name is Gleason, was rescued from drowning in Kanaka Creek by Daisley last Sunday. Kanaka Creek is near Haney in the Fraser Valley.

Daisley swam 50 feet to save the lad, who had fallen from a boom of logs.

A second boy, unidentified, was playing on the boom when the logs spread. He managed to scramble to safety.

Prairie Farmers
Welcome Rain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Rain continued to fall in sections of Saskatchewan today, but the weatherman predicted the end of the three-day downpour in Alberta and Saskatchewan. Manitoba continued cloudy, with showers expected in northern sections.

Farmers who "stuck it out" gamely through years of drought in Saskatchewan are optimistic this spring with prospects of crop germination the best in many districts since the big crop year of 1928.

Manitoba, which enjoyed a bumper crop last fall, received fractions of an inch of rain in most sections since Saturday, while eastern central Alberta received more than an inch of precipitation in the last 24 hours. Heaviest rainfall in the past 24 hours was recorded at Coronation, Alta., 150 miles southeast of Edmonton, where 1.94 inches soaked the ground.

Dr. Davidson joined the staff when the university was organized in 1915. He was previously on the staff of McGill University at Vancouver branch.

Mrs. Lucas joined the staff in 1927 and was promoted to health supervisor in 1935.

New Car With Motor in Rear

NEW YORK (AP)—The World Telegram says Emile E. C. Mathis, French motor manufacturer, today confirmed reports that he and Alex Wenner-Gren, Swedish industrialist, were planning a new type of automobile powered by a motor in the rear and designed to sell for $500 or less.

Tentative plans call for manufacture of the car in France, England, Sweden and the United States, with the American plant to be located near New York.

Mathis said the car was designed to go 50 to 60 miles on a gallon of gasoline, and the motor would have seven, eight or nine cylinders. The maximum speed, he said, would be about 50 miles an hour.

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—Striking members of the United Automobile Workers evacuated the parts plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company here this afternoon after holding the factory for almost eight hours.

Safe Blown By Experts

The above picture gives an idea of the expertness with which the safe of the Palm Dairies, North Park Street, was blown with nitroglycerine early yesterday morning. The hole through the door which formerly held the dial and combination instruments is clearly shown. This safe was taken from the front office to the bottling room at the rear, where it was laid on its back and the nitroglycerine poured around the combination dial. Sacks and canvas in the premises were used to muffle the sound of the explosion. Over $200 was taken from the safe.

Snatched Purse
Containing $40

Miss Ellen Worth, Craigflower Road, Victimized By Thief in Vacant Lot

Investigation of two robberies here in two days was being continued by city detectives today as they sought trace of the expert safecracker who robbed two firms of about $340 yesterday morning, and a thief who snatched a purse containing $40 from Miss Ellen Worth, 614 Craigflower Road, last night.

According to a report she gave police, Miss Worth was robbed last night about 8:45 as she crossed a vacant lot on Caladonia Avenue. She said she saw a man walking towards her with his coat collar turned up, partly covering his face. After passing her she said he turned back and snatched a canvas bag from under her arm which contained $40 in bills and silver.

The money was being taken by Miss Worth from Jimmy Little's store on Cormorant Street to his Quadra Street store. Police assume the thief was apparently familiar with Miss Worth's routine in closing the store and taking the day's receipts to Quadra Street. She furnished police with a description of her assailant, whom she said fled across the field after the robbery.

The safecracking investigation presented no tangible clues today.

Another Grey Owl?

During many hours of solitude in the Alpine Club cabin in the Sooke Mountains, Harold Vickers, the caretaker, amuses himself in the manner shown above, befriending squirrels and birds. Mr. Vickers, an ardent naturalist, who has spent many years of his life in the woods, has had many interesting experiences with his forest friends. "Billy," the squirrel shown in the picture, is one of his best and comes regularly to eat from Mr. Vickers' hand on this wooden block. His other companions include several whistling jacks which he calls at meal time. They fly in and sit around his plate and patiently wait for their morsel of bread well covered with butter, which they know always is waiting for them. At the present time Mr. Vickers is patiently hoping to befriend a wolf which has been coming near the cabin recently. Although he has never seen the animal, he hears it coming closer every day and believes that before long it will be close enough for him to see and probably later on become another of his family of forest friends. With an ingenious attachment to his camera, Mr. Vickers took the above picture so arranged that dripping water falls into a can from a container above and when a certain amount has dripped the shutter lever is sprung. He waited many days to get this shot.

Credit Men As Unsung Heroes

Play Important Part in Business, Says L. H. Harris, Vancouver

The importance of credit men to any business firm as the men who controlled sales and served as the actual link between profit and loss was referred to by L. H. Harris, president of the Vancouver Credit Granters' Association and director at large of the National Retail Credit Association, in a luncheon address today to the Victoria Credit Granters in Spencer's dining-room.

Mr. Harris read a quotation in which credit men were described as the unsung heroes of business who did not get into the spotlight as executives and selling men did but were abused by both their associates and customers.

The purpose of Mr. Harris' talk was primarily to promote a good representation from Victoria to the district credit conference which will be held in Portland from May 16 to 18. He said there would be from 40 to 45 Vancouver members going as well as representatives from Calgary, Edmonton and New Westminster. The Canadians attending the convention intended to wear Scottish sporrans to distinguish them, he said. He spoke of the value of district conferences to credit men, quoting D. F. Kelley, president of the Fair Department Store, Chicago, as saying these conferences served as sources of valuable information where credit men could gain practical and workable ideas for application in their own businesses.

L. E. Evenden introduced the speaker and L. W. Cox presided.

Hart Calls Barber Statement on Dewdney "Absolutely False"

Hon. John Hart, acting Premier of the province, today flatly denied the charge made by H. J. Barber, M.P., in the House of Commons yesterday that men could not get public works and relief jobs in the Fraser Valley unless they held Liberal organization cards.

"The statement is absolutely false. It is only made for election purposes," the acting Prime Minister said.

Mr. Barber charged that the jobs were only given to Liberals in preparation for the Dewdney by-election and that men were told their votes on election day could be checked because the ballots were numbered.

This was amusing, said Mr. Hart, when it was obvious that under the electoral system no man's vote could be checked.

Alberta Papers

Are Honored

Pulitzer Plaque Given Edmonton Journal For Freedom Fight

NEW YORK (CP)—Government control of the press was called "an indispensable instrument of dictatorship" by John M. Imrie, vice-president and managing director of the Edmonton Journal, in accepting here Monday night the award to his newspaper of a Pulitzer bronze plaque "for its leadership in defence of the freedom of the press in the province of Alberta."

In addition to this award, formally announced at the silver anniversary of the Columbia University Pulitzer Graduate School of Journalism, engraved certificates are to be presented to the five other dailies and 90 weekly newspapers of the province which co-operated in the campaign against the Alberta Press Act, passed by the Legislature of the province under the leadership of the Alberta government in October, 1937.

The dailies receiving engraved certificates are: The Albertan and the Herald, Calgary; the Bulletin, Edmonton; the Herald, Lethbridge, and the News, Medicine Hat.

Accepting the Pulitzer awards, first ever made outside the field of the United States press, Mr. Imrie said he was deeply grateful "for the recognition thus given to the struggle of the Alberta newspapers to preserve the freedom of the press within that province." The struggle was for much more than a free press. "It is for democracy itself," he added.

DR. BUTLER SPEAKS

Approximately 500 attended the dinner and heard Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, announced the annual Pulitzer awards for excellence in journalism, letters and the arts. The proceedings were carried throughout Canada and the United States over national radio hookups.

Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism, introduced the prize winners.

In presenting Mr. Imrie, who sat with the score at the head table, Dean Ackerman recalled the Supreme Court of Canada had found the Alberta Press Act unconstitutional last March and termed it "one of the greatest legal decisions of this period of world change."

Under the leadership of Mr. Imrie, the newspapers of Alberta had "fought for and successfully maintained the free press throughout the whole of Canada."

WINS $500 PRIZE

Among the other Pulitzer prizes Arthur Krock of the New York Times was given the $500 award for distinguished service as a Washington correspondent during 1937. It was his second successive award and he won it for an exclusive interview with President Roosevelt.

Thornton Wilder won the $1,000 play award for the production "Our Town" and Marquis James and Odell Shepherd split the $1,000 history award, James with his work on Andrew Jackson and Shepherd for his life of Bronson Ocott, entitled "Peddlars Progress."

Ray Sprigle of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette won the reporter award of $1,000 for his stories on the former Ku Klux Klan affiliate.

Kiwanians On

Goodwill Tour

Vancouver Club Breakfasts Here on Second Annual Northwest Visit

Victoria Kiwanians roused from their beds a few minutes earlier today to greet nearly 100 visiting Vancouver, New Westminister and Puget Sound city clubmen and their wives, who arrived for a 7.45 breakfast in Victoria, on the first leg of their second annual goodwill tour.

The Vancouver delegation in the company of several distinguished Kiwanians of the Pacific Northwest district, were met at the boat from Vancouver by the Victoria club and taken to the Empress Hotel.

In spite of a dull and drizzly arrival, the invading mainland party was in the best of spirits as chairman Leo Sweeney of Vancouver club ran through a lively agenda.

Guests at the head table included: Mrs. Leo Sweeney, Dr. Murray Blair, president of the Vancouver Kiwanis Club, and Mrs. Blair; Clinton Harley, Seattle, past district governor, and Mrs. Harley; G. Griffiths, present district governor from Olympia; Ray Wise, division lieutenant governor, Seattle, and Mrs. Wise; Harry Gowan, Seattle, past district governor; Mayor George Miller of Vancouver, Mayor Fred Hume, New Westminister; Mayor Andrew McGavin, Hon. F. M. McPherson, Byron Johnson, New Westminister; Carol Martin, president of the Seattle Kiwanis Club, and Dr. J. H. Worthington, president of the Tourist Association, Vancouver.

EXTEND GREETINGS

After extending the greetings of the Victoria club, Jack MacFarlane turned the gavel over to Mrs. Sweeney. Mr. Sweeney stressed the spirit of neighborliness as being the object of the goodwill tour and then called on Dr. Murray Blair who extended the greetings of the Vancouver club. On behalf of the City of Victoria, Mayor Andrew McGavin wished the visitors a good trip, while George Miller extended tion of Associate Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black.

salutations from the City of Vancouver.

Greetings from their respective representations were also extended by Fred Hume, Dr. Worthington and Clinton Harley. The latter as past district governor, told of the international goodwill aims of Kiwanis. "The feeling of friendliness existing between the United States and Canada is of more lasting good than all the treaties and scraps of paper in the world," he said.

"Kiwanis is going forward," declared Griff Griffiths, Olympia, as he urged all present to attend the forthcoming Kiwanis international convention in San Francisco. Hon. F. M. MacPherson extended salutations from the province to the goodwill tour.

Reinforced by the Victoria Club, the mainland visitors left for Port Angeles following breakfast. Other points to be visited on the tour include Everett, Mount Vernon, Seattle, New Westminister and Vancouver.

M'LAGLEN AT THE DOMINION

Popular Actor Carries Leading Male Role in "Battle of Broadway"

For the first time since she has appeared on the screen, Louise Hovick will sing in 20th Century-Fox's comedy of the American Legionnaires in New York, "Battle of Broadway," opening at the Dominion Theatre today.

Miss Hovick sings a new number by Sidney Clare and Harry Akst, "The Daughter of Mademoiselle," the modern successor to the famous sweetheart of the A.E.F.

Victor McLaglen heads the cast of the film, and his pal between punches is Brian Donlevy.

Gladys Swarthout

Coming to Atlas

Frolisome comedy is not the special province of typed comedians, the romantic Gladys Swarthout and John Boles prove in the new Paramount comedy, "Romance in the Dark." The singing actors with John Barrymore head a comic cast that includes Claire Dodd, Fritz Feld, Curt Bois and Carlos de Valdez in this comedy, which will open tomorrow at the Atlas Theatre.

While the two sing their way to romance in the manner they have popularized in their previous pictures, they join heartily in the broad comedy of this story of a Hungarian stage star who makes a fake Persian princess out of his household in order to get even with his manager and ends up by falling in love with the Cinderella he created.

Helen Hayes Will

Be Here Thursday

Although Helen Hayes, who comes to the Royal Victoria Theatre for one performance on Thursday in "Victoria Regina," has to her credit many distinguished film achievements, it is doubtful if the Hollywood studios will see anything of this popular star during the next two years.

Miss Hayes, he it understood, has no quarrel with the films nor with those who make them. It simply happens that her current chore in the Laurence Housman play will keep her occupied until late June. At that time, the play will end its tour in Los Angeles and Miss Hayes will be looking forward to a vacation with Charles MacArthur, her husband, and daughter, Mary.

CAPITOL THEATRE

In "The Divorce of Lady X," showing today at the Capitol Theatre, Merle Oberon gives the best performance of her career. Her reputation was built up on costume drama, but she shows that she can also excel in smart sophisticated comedy.

Her leading man, Laurence Olivier, also comes right to the top with his characterization of Logan, the famous divorce barrister.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Sonja Henie, who is co-starred with Tyrone Power in the Twentieth Century-Fox musical, "Thin Ice," which is now at the Columbia Theatre, excels not only in ice skating, but is highly proficient in skiing as well, according to Otto Lang, noted authority on the winter sport.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Because Sid Silvers has always nursed an ambition to break glasses, the bill for props on the new Wanger picture, "52nd Street," now at the Oak Bay Theatre, included an item for 429 highball glasses.

Silvers satisfied his craving in a musical sequence featuring Ella Logan, Jack White and Sid. The comedy business called for the unceasing crash of mint juleps.

After rehearsals director Harold Young stopped the carnage when Sid cut his finger on a piece of glass.

KENTUCKY DERBY LOOKS WIDE OPEN

of Gallant Fox, himself winner of the 1930 Derby with Sande in the saddle, was slated to arrive today with Myron Selznick's "Can't Wait, second in the Wood Memorial.

There's no lack of optimism around Sande's stable, however. From the Earl down to the lowest groom, they can't see how Staghound can be beaten unless it is by his stablemate, The Chief.

Among opposition to the high-powered combination is Canada's only hope, Wise Fox. The horse, owned by A. G. Tarn of Winnipeg, galloped to victory in the Louisiana Derby and is slated to run his one-mile Derby "trial" today with Staghound as rival.

Radiotelephone Service for Isolated Points

Isolated points in British Columbia can now obtain long-distance telephone service through the medium of radiotelephone links provided by the North-west Telephone Company and connecting with the regular telephone network. Already radiotelephony is connecting Prince Rupert, Ocean Falls, Zeballos, Quesnel, fish canneries, logging camps, and other points, with the outside world.
